Conversational Realities Constructing Life Through Language:

Conversational Realities John Shotter, 1993 Communication Management and Language David Holman, Richard Thorpe, 2003 Management and Language explores and develops the image of the manager as one who is aware of and attends to the way in which language is used in everyday managerial activity. Much managerial activity is achieved through language and a vital task for any manager is to generate with others an intelligible account of the various feelings that surround the contested issues in the organization. Such a process involves reading a context from different perspectives, constructing new meanings, framing the complexities and dilemmas faced into new landscapes of possible future actions, and creating a persuasive argument for those landscapes amongst those who must work in them. For such a process to be conducted successfully, a range of abilities and skills become relevant, such as storytelling, metaphors, and developing arguments. Management and Language is a timely publication with contributions from eminent academics in the field. This book will be engaging reading to academics and management teachers interested in critical management theory and those generally open to new and different approaches to management. It will also be of relevance to practising managers who wish to have a deeper understanding of how they use language in their everyday work.

Putting Psychology in its Place Graham Richards, Paul Stenner, 2022-07-19 This fourth edition of Putting Psychology in Its Place builds on the previous three in introducing the history of Psychology and placing the discipline within its historical and social contexts. Written by esteemed Psychologists Graham Richards and Paul Stenner, this crucial text aims both to answer and raise questions about the role of Psychology in modern society by critically examining issues such as how Psychology developed and why psychoanalysis had such an impact. It discusses enduring underlying conceptual problems and examines how the discipline has changed to deal with contemporary social issues such as religion, race, and gender. The fourth edition features revised and updated chapters, though the core structure remains unchanged. The final chapter has been restructured and jointly re-written. This text was written to remain compatible with the British Psychological Society requirements for undergraduate courses and is imaginatively written and accessible to all. Putting Psychology in Its Place is an invaluable introductory text for undergraduate students of the history of Psychology and will also appeal to postgraduates, academics, and anyone interested in Psychology or the history of science.

Conversational Realities Revisited John Shotter, 2008 Shotter contests the traditional scientific view that naturally occurring psychological and sociological realities of a systematic and structured kind are to be discovered underlying appearances. Instead, he claims that such orderly realities are constructed and sustained only within the context of people's disorderly everyday activities.

A Cultural Approach to Discourse S. xu, 2015-12-28 Shi xu critiques universalism in discourse studies in terms of the cultural consequences of its current white western standpoint and advocates a culturally pluralist approach, a theory and research methodology from an innovative position between Eastern and Western cultures. Practical research strategies are illustrated by examples drawn from culturally wide-ranging discourses.

This is a book to interest any scholar or student of discourse looking outside their own intellectual tradition Joint Action Tim Corcoran, John Cromby, 2016-06-10 Joint Action Essays in honour of John Shotter brings together a cross disciplinary group of fifteen respected international scholars to explain the relevance of John Shotter's work to emerging concerns in twenty first century social science Shotter's work extends over forty years and continues to challenge conventional scientific thinking across a range of topics The disciplines and practices that Shotter's work has informed are well established throughout the English speaking world This is the first publication to examine the importance of his influence in contemporary social sciences and it includes authoritative discussions on topics such as social constructionism democratic practice organisational change the affective turn and human relations The geographical diversity and disciplinary breadth of scholarly contributions imbues the book with international scope and reach Joint Action presents a contemporary reflection on Shotter's work that demonstrates its influence across a range of substantive topics and practical endeavours and within disciplines including management studies and philosophy as well as psychology As such it will appeal to researchers and postgraduate students of social sciences and related disciplines as well as to those who have heard of Shotter's work and want to know more about its utility and value in relation to their own research or practice
