An Analysis of Policy Implementation in the Third World Marcus Powell,2018-12-13 First published in 1999 this book analyzes the process involved in implementing Technical and Vocational Education and Training policies in the countries of Jamaica and The Gambia A critical approach was used to analyse the role played by different actors in this process both at public and private sector institutions The study documented a variety of projects and programmes ranging from those that promoted entrepreneurship or self employment amongst young people to those that were more concerned with providing the skills needed for export led growth Overall it highlighted the complexities surrounding implementation and of the importance of donor agencies in financing TVET developments in both countries Furthermore it also illustrated how the use of foreign technical assistance and components obtained from the developed world combined with the influence of the physical and political infrastructure were the major reasons why projects or programmes failed to achieve their stated objectives The study concludes by suggesting a model which can be used by policy makers to help ensure that programmes or projects are more successful at meeting local labour market needs rather than those of aid agencies or actors within the state apparatus

Political Development Theory Richard Higgott,2005-06-28 This book examines development theory from a political perspective It considers modernisation theory and public policy as well as Marxism the state and the third world

The Third World And U.s. Foreign Policy Robert L. Rothstein,2019-06-25 The quest for a viable policy toward the Third World will be a dominant theme in U S foreign policy throughout this decade But before any judgments can be made about the range of choices for U S policymakers it is necessary to understand the pressures that are likely to confront developing nations during the 1980s as well as the efforts of these nations as a group to extract greater resources and attention from the international system This book considers policy responses that have been and are likely to be implemented by developing nations as they face increasing pressures in the areas of food energy trade and debt the main areas of interaction within the international system The author also presents an analysis of how the North South Dialogue functions and why it has produced so few genuine settlements providing an additional perspective on whether the pressures on the developing countries might be diminished by successful global negotiations The conclusions reached by examining policy responses and the Dialogue itself provide the basis for a number of specific policy prescriptions They also help to establish a framework within which U S policy initiatives toward the Third World must be formed The two concluding chapters discuss these policy choices in detail carefully analyzing the advantages and disadvantages of persisting in present policies attempting a genuine global restructuring choosing to concentrate attention on a few new influentials in the Third World and trying to construct a new approach out of selected elements of the other policy approaches

Clientelism and Implementing Social Security Programmes in Post-conflict Iraqi Kurdistan Region Muslih Irwani,2015-10-19 Clientelism and Implementing Social Security Programmes in Post conflict Iraqi Kurdistan Region investigates social policy in a politically less developed entity and examines the mainstream top down and bottom up models of policy implementation in light of a detailed study of the Kurdistan Regional Government In addition it introduces the innovative clientelistic model of policy implementation a political and preferential tool which utilises a public nationalistic dichotomy in social welfare provision The book argues that politicians in the Kurdistan region deal with social policy programmes according to their political preferences attaching importance to policies on the basis of the way they feel about those social programmes and interest groups concerned As such as it stands policy implementation is subject to interference by politicians and high government officials under the pretext of supporting and monitoring the way such policy is implemented Through an investigation of the most prominent actors in the implementation of social security programmes this book demonstrates how beneficiaries of these programmes can themselves become focal points in the implementation process Indeed within the Kurdistan Regional Government s social policy context today the benefits of social security schemes are being distributed based on the socio political status of recipients not on their socio economic conditions and needs

International Regimes in China Gianluca Ferraro,2013-07-24 According to the Food and Agriculture Organization FAO of the United Nations more than 80% of world s fish stocks are fully exploited over exploited depleted or recovering from depletion Although several international agreements have promoted more responsible fisheries coastal states have usually maintained national policies that enable higher harvest levels rather than greater conservation of fish stocks and international agreements for more responsible fisheries have generally experienced a weak domestic implementation Among the major coastal fishing states China constitutes the largest fish producer and main exporter in the world and therefore presents a fascinating case study for the domestic implementation of international fisheries agreements This book investigates the degree to which China has complied with the international agreements it has signed and asks why it is failing to meet expectations Crucially it calls for greater emphasis on the political rather than technical issues involved in the implementation of international regimes In turn it examines how understanding the case of China can help us to develop solutions for improved international compliance in the future Providing an improved understanding of the implementation of international regimes alongside an in depth study of China s political system policy making and compliance this book will be of great interest to students and scholars of Chinese studies international relations public policy and international law and environmental studies It will also be useful for policy makers working in the fields of environmental regulation and fisheries management
