When a net force acts on an object, the object's motion will change. This means that the object's speed or direction will change. However, if the net force is zero, the object's motion will not change. This means that the object will continue to move in the same direction at the same speed. This is called Newton's first law of motion. Newton's second law of motion states that the acceleration of an object is directly proportional to the net force acting on it and inversely proportional to its mass. This means that if you increase the net force on an object, its acceleration will also increase. However, if you increase the mass of an object, its acceleration will decrease. Newton's third law of motion states that for every action, there is an equal and opposite reaction. This means that if one object exerts a force on another object, the second object exerts an equal and opposite force on the first object. For example, if you push on a wall, the wall pushes back on you with an equal and opposite force.  Answer the questions that follow. <ol style="list-style-type: none"> What does Newton's first law of motion state? <ol style="list-style-type: none"> An object at rest will stay at rest.
