An Inimitable Example The Case For The Princesse De Cleves

Patrick Gerard Henry

An Inimitable Example The Case For The Princesse De Cleves:

An Inimitable Example Patrick Gerard Henry,1992 Madame de Lafayette s La Princesse de Cleves has since its publication in the late 17th century been subjected to moralistic evaluation that has chastened and maligned the heroine for over three hundred years The princess has been accused of implausible behaviour deep seated egoism irreligion obsessive concern with appearances suicidal tendencies psychological immaturity cowardice and general inauthenticity as a human being

Psychosomatic Disorders in Seventeenth-Century French Literature Bernadette Höfer,2016-04-15 Bernadette H fer s innovative and ambitious monograph argues that the epistemology of the Cartesian mind body dualism and its insistence on the primacy of analytic thought over bodily function has surprisingly little purchase in texts by prominent classical writers In this study H fer explores how Surin Moli re Lafayette and Racine represent interconnections of body and mind that influence behaviour both voluntary and involuntary and that thus disprove the classical notion of the mind as distinct from and superior to the body The author s interdisciplinary perspective utilizes early modern medical and philosophical treatises as well as contemporary medical compilations in the disciplines of psychosomatic medicine neurobiology and psychoanalysis to demonstrate that these seventeenth century French writers established a view of human existence that fully anticipates current thought regarding psychosomatic illness

The Other Rise of the Novel in Eighteenth-Century French Fiction Olivier Delers,2015-09-01 The rise of the novel paradigm and the underlying homology between the rise of a bourgeois middle class and the coming of age of a new literary genre continues to influence the way we analyze economic discourse in the eighteenth century French novel Characters are often seen as portraying bourgeois values even when historiographical evidence points to the virtual absence of a self conscious and coherent bourgeoisie in France in the early modern period Likewise the fact that the nobility was a dynamic and diverse group whose members had learned to think in individualistic and meritocratic terms as a result of courtly politics is often ignored The Other Rise of the Novel calls for a radical revision of how realism the language of self interest and commercial exchanges and idealized noble values interact in the early modern novel It focuses on two novels from the seventeenth century Fureti re s Roman bourgeois and Lafayette s Princesse de Cl ves and four novels from the eighteenth century Pr vost s Manon Lescaut Graffigny s Lettres d une P ruvienne Rousseau s La Nouvelle H lo se and Sade s Les infortunes de la vertu It argues that eighteenth century French fiction does not reflect material culture mimetically and that character action is best analyzed by focusing on the social and discursive exchanges staged by the text rather than by trying to create parallels between specific behavior and actual historical changes The novel produces its own reality by transforming characters and their stories into alternative social models different articulations of how individuals should define their economic relations to others The representation of interpersonal relations often highlights personal conceptions of private interest that cannot be easily reconciled with the traditional narrative of a transition towards economic modernity Realism then is not only about verisimilar storytelling and psychological depth it is an epistemological questioning about the type of access to reality that a particular genre can give its readers

Involuntary Confessions of the Flesh in Early Modern France Nora Martin Peterson, 2016-09-14 Involuntary Confessions of the Flesh in Early Modern France was inspired by the observation that small slips of the flesh involuntary confessions of the flesh are omnipresent in early modern texts of many kinds These slips which bear similarities to what we would today call the Freudian slip disrupt and destabilize readings of body self and text three categories whose mutual boundaries this book seeks to soften but also in their very messiness participate in defining them Involuntary Confessions capitalizes on the uncertainty of such volatile moments arguing that it is instability itself that provides the tools to navigate and understand the complexity of the early modern world Rather than locate the body within any one discourse Foucauldian psychoanalytic this book argues that slips of the flesh create a liminal space not exactly outside of discourse but not necessarily subject to it either Involuntary confessions of the flesh reveal the perpetual and urgent challenge of early modern thinkers to textually confront and define the often tenuous relationship between the body and the self By eluding and frustrating attempts to contain it the early modern body reveals that truth is as much about surfaces as it is about interior depth and that the self is fruitfully perpetuated by the conflict that proceeds from seemingly irreconcilable narratives Interdisciplinary in its scope Involuntary Confessions of the Flesh in Early Modern France pairs major French literary works of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries by Marguerite de Navarre Montaigne Madame de Lafayette with cultural documents confession manuals legal documents about the application of torture and courtly handbooks It is the first study of its kind to bring these discourses into thematic rather than linear or chronological dialog In so doing it emphasizes the shared struggle of many different early modern conversations to come to terms with the body's volatility Published by University of Delaware Press Distributed worldwide by Rutgers University Press

French Women Authors Kelsey Lee Haskett, Holly Faith Nelson, 2013 From the overwhelmingly Christian culture of the Middle Ages and pre Enlightenment France to the wide diversity prevalent in post modern times including the rise of Islam within French borders a radical shift has permeated French society a shift that is reflected in the work of the writers chosen for this book Moreover the sensitivity of women writers to the individual side of spiritual life in contrast to the practices of organized religion also emerges as a major trend with women often being seen as a voice for social and religious change or for a more meaningful personal faith and regulations Discusses the political turmoil during this period as well as the Reformation and the Counter Reformation encouraging research on ancient tests methods of research and the standardization of the French language Catherine de Medici Michael G. Paulson,2002 Annotation Pursuing the French literary connection to Italian history Paulson emeritus French and Spanish Kutztown U PA considers several 19th century perspectives on whether the 16th century queen mother was a conniving murderer or savior of the French monarchy After presenting a brief biography the author compares her treatment in four historical novels and a play by Balzac Dumas p ere La Fayette and M erim ee The book is not indexed Annotation c Book News Inc Portland OR booknews com Facets of a Princess Michael G. Paulson,1998 A critical study of Madame de La Fayette s La Princess de Cleves Unlike previous studies of the 17th century novel this work does not limit its focus to a single critical approach but instead examines it from political historical extreme feminist and religious perspectives No index Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR The Search for Lyonesse Shirley Jones Day,1999 Romance Notes ,1994 Writers and Heroines Shirley Jones Day,1999 These nine essays examine the image of women in French literature from the early fifteenth century of Christine de Pizan to the late eighteenth century of Isabelle de Charri re While the seminal importance of La Princesse de Cl ves in the canon of women s writing is indicated by its being discussed in three of the articles the interactive nature of men s and women s writing is revealed in the remarkable literary heroines created by Guilleragues and Cr billon fils The aim of the volume is to open doors of discussion not only on to periods of literature where the woman writer remains a shadowy figure but also between different periods of literature and different critical approaches to the question of women as writers and heroines Memory and Desire Peter Mudford,1996 This text explores the theme of passion and sexual obsession in the novella Many famous novellas by English French German and Russian writers of the 17th to the 20th centuries are concerned with this theme and many have become the basis for famous operas including Werther Manon Lescaut La Traviata and Death in Venice The Differential Calculus as the Model of Desire in French Fiction of the Seventeenth and Eighteenth Centuries Kenneth C. Hockman,1997 Blaise Pascal s construction of his mathematical triangle provided the device to extend the application of a differential calculus By tracing the affinities between the scientific and literary writing of Pascal this work isolates the figure of man s fear of divine abandonment as the key formal relation between the differential calculus and literary fiction Through its ability to describe the concept of force the calculus permits a reading of abandonment as the trace of the force of desire Thus the calculus offers a dynamic to the spatial disposition of psychological tension in the fiction of Lafayette Crebillon Rousseau Laclos and Sade Modern Techniques in a Seventeenth-century Writer Moses Hardin,1997 Modern Techniques in a Seventeenth Century Writer focuses on the novelistic techniques used by Anne de la Roche Guilhen a seventeenth century writer The first in depth study of its kind it explores many elements of plot characterization and narration It shows Anne de la Roche Guilhen s originality by comparing her treatment of the theme of love to that of Madame de La Fayette and other well known authors

The Holy Family as Prototype of the Civilization of Love Barbara Von Barghahn, 1996 In spring 1996 Saint Joseph's University hosted the exhibition The Holy Family as Prototype of the Civilization of Love Images from the Viceregal Americas which commemorated the 75th anniversary of the introduction of the Feast of the Holy Family to the liturgical calendar of the Universal Church The exhibition displayed paintings from the Spanish Colonial period rare books and engravings from seventeenth and eighteenth century Europe and lithographs and devotional paintings on tin from nineteenth century Mexico and New Mexico Culled from private collections galleries in Miami New York Washington D C and institutional collections of several Catholic universities these art works offered a visual chronicle of the evolution of devotion to the Holy Family
