

Chapter 5 – Elasticity and Its Applications

Do they depend both on the numbers of firms and on the price?

- What is elasticity? What kinds of factors can increase, decrease, or stabilize it?
- What is the price elasticity of demand? How is it related to the demand curve? How is it related to demand's steepness?
- What is the price elasticity of supply? How is it related to the supply curve?
- What are the income and cross-price elasticities of demand?

Key concepts

How supply and demand for good X are affected

How change in price of demand and supply will be affected and how

How price is being determined the opportunity cost of your time, as you're thinking of going your good to school

How the price elasticity of demand and supply will be affected and how if you have your good. How they have been affected? How much will your demand fall or shift if your income?

Key points

- Demand curve: elasticity measures how much the quantity demanded of a good or service changes in response to a change in the price of that good or service.
 - One type of elasticity measures how much demand for one good changes when the price of another good changes.
- Elasticity: A measure of the sensitivity of the quantity demanded of a good to a change in the price of that good.

Price Elasticity of Demand

- Price elasticity of demand: measures how much Q^D responds to a change in P .
- Formula: the price elasticity of demand is defined

$$\text{Price elasticity of demand} = \frac{\text{Percentage change in } Q^D}{\text{Percentage change in } P}$$

Along a demand curve, P and Q move in opposite directions, which usually makes price elasticity negative. We will look at this sign, and learn different methods to compute it.

Example:

The price elasticity of demand for apples is -0.75. If the price of apples falls by 10%, the quantity demanded will

Calculate Percentage Change

Quantity = $100 \times (-0.75) \times (-10\%) = 7.5\%$

Result will:

Quantity will go up by 7.5% when the price falls by 10%.
