California Base Closure David Rubenson,John R. Anderson,1995 This report is an examination of the policies developed to bring about accelerated cleanup of military bases now closing in California and the relevance of those policies to other Department of Defense cleanup programs and hazardous waste policy in general This annotated case study oriented briefing discusses the applicable legislation and the various priority setting systems that might be imposed those based on risk jobs reuse speed or land Four questions are addressed what goals govern cleanup on California s closing bases and to what extent are they reuse driven Is risk driven priority a by product of existing cleanup legislation How do reuse and risk driven priorities differ and can DoD s goal of harmonizing these two priorities with legislative requirements be achieved What is project management s role Site specific base studies are described and recommendations delineated for both active and closing bases

Military Base Closures: Opportunities Exist to Improve Environmental Cleanup Cost Reporting & to Expedite Transfer of Unneeded Property ,2007 While expected environmental cleanup costs for unneeded property arising from the 2005 BRAC round are not yet fully known Department of Defense DOD data indicate that about 950 million will be needed to clean up these bases adding to the estimated 13.2 billion total cleanup cost for the prior rounds Although DOD s cleanup program has matured compared to prior BRAC rounds there are still many unknowns and the cleanup estimate for the 2005 round should be considered preliminary In fact environmental cleanup costs are likely to increase as more intensive environmental investigations are undertaken additional hazardous conditions are discovered and future reuse plans are finalized Furthermore Congress does not have full visibility over the total cost of DOD s BRAC cleanup efforts because none of the four reports DOD prepares on various aspects of environmental cleanup present all types of costs past and future to complete cleanup at each base Compiling a complete picture of all costs requires extracting information from multiple reports as GAO has done to estimate the total cleanup cost for the four prior BRAC rounds More complete and transparent cost information would assist Congress in conducting its oversight responsibilities for this multibillion dollar effort
