

2. Creative Interchange defined

For Henry Nelson Wieman (Charlie's Palmgren's mentor), Creative Interchange is an experience, the kind of experience that transforms us in ways in which we cannot transform ourselves. According to him, Creative Interchange is the experience of spontaneous human-heartedness and human-thoughtfulness that opens us to an increasingly widened and deepened appreciation and understanding of ourselves as individual persons and of all other persons we encounter.

Ordinarily, the experience of most of us is dominated by the concerns of survival and security. This survival-security orientation easily minimizes Creative Interchange between people since it is an orientation fed by the Vicious Circle™. In fact, the harder we try to live within our Vicious Circle, the more intolerable life becomes. Charlie Palmgren has described the obstacles to Creative Interchange brilliantly in 'The Chicken Conspiracy'. His mentor, Henry Nelson Wieman emphasizes, in his book, Man's Ultimate Commitment, the obstacles as:

“These barriers to creative interchange are not only internal to the individual. They are also social. Barriers are built into all our social institutions.”

The reality is that the experience of Creative Interchange is a somehow difficult to attain experience of individuals and societies. Wieman is calling for the experience of Creative Interchange as something more than an occasional interlude in our lives; he is calling for the experience of creative interchange as the nurturing matrix out of which we continuously build, correct, and rebuild our individual lives, our societies, and the one world to which we are inescapably connected:

“Creative Interchange is that kind of interchange which creates in those who engage in it an appreciative understanding of the original experience of one another. ... Creative Interchange has two aspects, which are two sides of the same thing. One aspect is the understanding in some measure of the original experience of the other person. The other aspect is the integration of what one gets from others in such a way as to create progressively the original experience, which is oneself.”

3. The Nurturing Matrix of Creative Interchange

Creative Interchange is that kind of experience that confirms and assures us of our sense of individuality, both apart from and in connection with other human beings. Human nature needs Creative Interchange more than anything else, if it is to be satisfied in the deepest and most far reaching ways.

Creative Interchange is not limited to the acquisition of information alone.
