

PHILIPPINE MYTHICAL CREATURES

by Jimuel B. Villamente BSEd – 2

The Philippines is home to a rich and varied mythology, filled with a wide range of intriguing and fascinating creatures. From shape-shifting aswangs to mischievous nuno sa punso, these mythological beings have long been a part of Philippine folklore and continue to be a source of fascination for people around the world. In this article, we will explore some of the most well-known mythological creatures in the Philippines.

ASWANG – One of the most feared creatures in Philippine mythology is the aswang, a shape-shifting creature that is said to prey on humans. Aswangs are said to be able to transform into various forms, including the tik-tik, a bird-like creature that makes a distinctive clicking sound, and the manananggal, a half-human, half-bat creature that can fly and detach its upper body from its lower half. Aswangs are believed to be nocturnal creatures that feed on the blood of humans, and are often depicted as being able to take on the appearance of ordinary people in order to blend in and catch their prey.

BAKUNAWA – also known as Bakonawa or Bakonaua, is a mythical sea serpent or dragon in Philippine mythology. It is believed to be the cause of eclipses and is associated with the moon. According to legend, Bakunawa lived in the depths of the sea and had the ability to swallow the moon, causing an eclipse. It is said that the Bakunawa would rise from the depths of the ocean and try to swallow the moon during a full moon. The people of the Philippines believed that making noise, such as by banging on pots and pans, would scare the Bakunawa away and prevent it from swallowing the moon.

KAPRE – Another well-known mythological creature in the Philippines is the kapre, a giant, tobacco-smoking creature that is often depicted as a mischievous trickster. Kapres are said to be fond of playing pranks on humans, and are often depicted as being able to take on various forms and sizes. They are also believed to have the power to make themselves invisible, which they use to their advantage when playing tricks on people. Despite their mischievous nature, kapres are generally depicted as being benign and not harmful to humans.
