Notes, 1990 Whitaker's Book List, 1991 Expert Systems in Finance and Accounting Robert J. Thierauf, 1990-01-19 The book is divided into four parts and begins by offering a framework for developing expert systems in finance and accounting In the second part the author reviews the current state of development for programming languages in expert systems the computer hardware necessary to run expert systems and expert system shells useful in developing business expert systems Part 3 presents an in depth examination of the procedures used in developing expert systems while the final part focuses on typical applications of expert systems in finance and accounting International Directory of Business and Management Scholars and Research: Lor-Z, indexes Deanna LaValle, 1995 The Cumulative Book Index, 1990 A world list of books in the English language The Effort-Net Return Model of Employee Motivation Philip C. Grant, 1990-02-12 Written for human resources and training professionals this book addresses a recurring problem for managers and corporations how can we efficiently cost effectively and humanely motivate employees to work at or near their top potential Arguing that opportunities to heighten employee motivation are often missed when managers rely on overly simplistic theories of human motivation Grant develops his own multifaceted Effort Net Return Model and offers a sampling of over 200 prescriptions for motivating employees that can be derived from the model The model itself is based upon four basic principles each grounded in research and each of which has supporting propositions which determine the motivational prescription to be employed Because the motivational prescriptions indicated can be easily tailored to the recipient's own personal value system the model is applicable across a broad spectrum of employee groups Grant introduces and describes the Effort Net Return Model in Chapter One demonstrating its superiority over previous models which rely on the application of restrictive formulas and constructs to determine motivational strategies The next four chapters address in turn each of the four principles upon which the model is based and their supporting propositions In these chapters Grant also provides a representative inventory of the kinds of avenues managers can pursue to enhance employee motivation Throughout Grant emphasizes the impact of individual differences on the end results to be expected from a given motivational prescription cautioning the reader to take these differences into account when beginning to put together a motivational plan The final chapter presents real world case problems together with analyses and suggested prescriptive packages to enable the reader to move from theory to actual practice Numerous exercises and application instruments are also included to help the manager apply the Effort Net Return Model in the workplace

Corporate Planning, Human Behavior, and Computer Simulation Roy Nersesian, 1990-02-15 Roy L Nersesian challenges traditional forecasting methods that rely strictly on econometric models arguing that they ignore a fundamental aspect of the business cycle human emotional responses to economic stimuli Nersesian advocates instead the development of forecasting models that incorporate human behavior into the process and he provides a tool computer simulation which can be used for this purpose As Nersesian demonstrates such consumer attitudes as confidence in the future fear of depression even passing fads can have a profound effect on business activity and are often far more predictive of the future than are the thousands of mathematical equations used to develop a forecast built upon econometrics By using simulation to factor potential consumer responses into the forecasting process Nersesian is able to tie forecasting to the consequences of human behavior and thereby determine the way in which attitudes play a role in affecting the future course of business Nersesian s study is organized around a series of questions about the business cycle If economic activity is influenced by the nature of decisions and if decisions are based partly on human responses to such things as prices and costs and partly on human emotions shouldn t the forecasting process itself incorporate human behavior If human behavior in turn is influenced by factors such as price cost and inventory and the general level of confidence in the future should these not be incorporated in the forecasting process In order to address these questions Nersesian creates a simple island society and demonstrates how to use simulation to assess the effects of elements that might cause a change of consumer sentiment during the forecast period As Nersesian concludes a change of consumer sentiment at any time during the forecast period can have significant implications for the accuracy or usefulness of a forecast used in the corporate planning process Both students of forecasting and corporate planners will find Nersesian s work illuminating reading Division of Duties and Responsibilities Between the Company Secretary and Directors in Hong Kong John Philip Lawton,2001 The Valuation and Investment Merits of Diamonds Sarkis Khoury,1990-03-26 This is the first book which deals with the economics of diamonds specifically with the determinants of diamond prices The period of analysis 1978 1983 was chosen in order to shed light on the dramatic drop in diamond prices The dominant variables causing this drop were the varying price of gold and fluctuating interest rates Khoury helps the investor in making long range decisions about investing in diamonds and deciding on the form the investment should take He warns of the importance to understand the sensitivities of the market and the factors which must be taken into consideration before commitments to an investment in diamonds are made The book includes a quick review of the characteristics of diamonds the financial performance of DeBeers in a declining market the economic structure of the diamond industry the method for exercising economic control over the diamond market the economic variables influencing diamond prices and the modeling of diamond prices and the testing of the model using advanced statistical methods CGI ,2002 Judgment in International Accounting Ahmed Riahi-Belkaoui,1990-02-20 Belkaoui offers a thorough examination of the various factors that affect the judgment decision process in an accounting setting As the author notes at the outset an appreciation of the various influences on accounting decisionmaking is of critical importance to users preparers and verifiers of accounting information particularly in an era of multinational corporations and global markets In order to explain the judgment process in accounting Belkaoui proposes a new theoretical model which assumes both that a cognitive process guides judgments and decisionmaking in accounting and that the schemata underlying this process are shaped by the crucial factors of national culture language organizational culture and contractual agreements The author examines each of these influences in turn offering a comprehensive guide to the practitioner and researcher seeking empirical hypotheses to explain the judgment process in the international accounting arena The bulk of the volume is devoted to an in depth examination of each of the five relativisms which affect the accounting judgment decision process cognitive cultural linguistic organizational and contractual In each chapter the author explores the theory and findings underlying these relativisms in the social sciences and their contribution to explaining the judgment decision process in accounting The final chapter synthesizes the preceding material and develops an international accounting theory based upon the judgment decision model Throughout Belkaoui focuses on the complexity and richness of the judgment decision process cautioning that the evaluation of any accounting information must take into account the various critical influences on this process
