

The Legend of the Christmas Spider

A long, long time ago, in land far away,
A mother was busy cleaning house to prepare for Christmas day.
The spiders scurried to the attic to escape her mop and broom
And wait for peace and quiet to descend upon the room.

At last the house was silent and the family fast asleep.
The spiders slowly crept downstairs so they could take a peek.
The house though small and humble was a beautiful site to see
But their tiny hearts were filled with joy when they saw the Christmas tree.

They quickly scurried up the trunk to explore each glimmering light
And wander among the ornaments all throughout the night.
But they retreated to the corner when they heard footsteps draw near
When they saw that it was Santa they no longer shook with fear.

Santa smiled as he gazed upon the tree and saw the dusty shroud
Alas, the artistry of happy spiders sadly could not be allowed.
Knowing how hard the mother had worked - as this story has been told
He turned the spider's webs of grey to strands of silver and gold.

So put lots of tinsel on your tree and this Christmas Spider upon its bough
A reminder that miracles happen every day - someway, somehow.
I wish you a life full of happy memories, peace, love, laughter and cheer
May you have a blessed Christmas and a Happy New Year!
