uncertain and unpredictable future In this lecture Dylan William argues that if we are serious about raising student achievement the only way to do this is by investing in the professional development of teachers Not all investments are equally effective and some such as helping teachers make greater use of assessment for learning are more effective than others such as increasing teacher content knowledge If we are to be successful however as well as being clear about what we want teachers to do differently we have to understand why changing teachers practice is so difficult This will require radical changes in the way we treat teacher professional development
