What is a Theory?

- It is any system of ideas arranged in rational order that produce general principles which increase our understanding and explanations.
- In simple terms, theory is an explanation of something.
- According to Freda Adler (1983), a theory is a statement that explains the relationship between abstract concepts in a meaningful way.

2. Theories of Law and Criminal Justice.

What are the levels of explanations of the cause of crime?

• Macro

- Macro theories of criminal behavior explain the "big picture" of crime — crime across the world or across a society.
- They attempt to answer why there are variations of group rates of crime.
- Other authors have used the terms "epidemiology" or social structural theories.

• Micro

- Micro theories of criminal behavior focus on a small group of offenders or on an individual crime.
- They attempt to answer why some individuals are more likely than others to commit crime.
- Other authors have used the terms "individual conduct" or process theories.

What is the importance of a Theory?

- The most important task of theory is explanation which is also called prediction.
- An explanation is a sensible way of relating the facts about some particular phenomena to the intellectual atmosphere of a people at a particular time or place.
- Theory provides concepts to name what we observe and to explain relationships between concepts.
- Theory helps us understand what we don't know and, therefore, is the only guide to research.

THE DETERRENCE AND RATIONAL CHOICE THEORIES

Classical Criminology

- Classicism refers to a number of late eighteenth and early nineteenth century thinkers who offered common reflections on crime, law and punishment and whose ideas were subsequently appropriated by criminology.
- A school of thought based upon utilitarian notions of free will and the greatest good for the greatest number.
- At its core, classical criminology refers to a belief that a crime is committed after an individual weighs the pros and cons.
- The decision to commit a crime is a rational decision, and is best countered through a deterrence-based system.
