The Art of Hunger Paul Auster, 1993 In this astonishingly acrobatic work Paul Auster traces the compulsion to make literature or art through essays on Franz Kafka Samuel Beckett Paul Celan Laura Riding Knut Hamsun John Ashbery and other vital figures of our century In a section of interviews as well as in the revelatory The Red Notebook Auster reflects on his own work on the need to break down the boundary between living and writing on the use of certain genre conventions to penetrate matters of memory and identity The Art of Hunger undermines and expands our accepted notions about literature and throws an unprecedented light on his own richly allusive writing

The Art of Hunger Paul Auster, 2001-01-01 In this astonishingly acrobatic work Paul Auster traces the compulsion to make literature or art through essays on Franz Kafka Samuel Beckett Paul Celan Laura Riding Knut Hamsun John Ashbery and other vital figures of our century In a section of interviews as well as in the revelatory The Red Notebook Auster reflects on his own work on the need to break down the boundary between living and writing on the use of certain genre conventions to penetrate matters of memory and identity The Art of Hunger undermines and expands our accepted notions about literature and throws an unprecedented light on his own richly allusive writing

Paul Auster's Writing Machine Evija Trofimova, 2014-08-28 Paul Auster is one of the most acclaimed figures in American literature Known primarily as a novelist Auster's films and various collaborations are now gaining more recognition Evija Trofimova offers a radically different approach to the author's wider body of work unpacking the fascinating web of relationships between his texts and presenting Auster's canon as a rhizomatic factio fictional network produced by a set of writing tools Exploring Auster's literal and figurative use of these tools the typewriter the cigarette the doppelgänger figure the city Evija Trofimova discovers Auster's writing machine a device that works both as a means to write and as a construct that manifests the emblematic writer figure This is a book about assembling texts and textual networks the writing machines that produce them and the ways such machines invest them with meaning Embarking on a scholarly quest that takes her from between the lines of Auster's work to between the streets of his beloved New York and finally to the man himself Paul Auster's Writing Machine becomes not just a critical investigation but a critical collaboration raising important questions about the ultimate meaning of Auster's work and about the relationship between texts their authors their readers and their critics mourning no future no trace of life without the return of the specter that is without ghost writing

Fictive Fathers in the Contemporary American Novel Debra Shostak, 2020-02-20 Fictive Fathers in the Contemporary American Novel explores the unstable construction of heteronormative white masculinity in the contemporary United States by focusing on relationships between fathers and their children Debra Shostak reads the novels of 18 North American writers publishing in the late 20th and early 21st centuries as allegories of cultural conflict and change within the nuclear family the authors considered include Paul Auster Don DeLillo Jeffrey Eugenides Jonathan Safran Foer Jonathan Franzen John Irving Jonathan Lethem Carole Maso Bobbie Ann Mason Cormac McCarthy Claire Messud Viet Thanh Nguyen Tim O'Brien Marilynne Robinson Philip Roth Mona Simpson Jane Smiley and Anne Tyler These novelists portray father figures who often literally or figuratively absent from the family scene disrupt the familial order and their family members identities Shostak's close readings illuminate unexpectedly conservative even subversive ideological positions at the heart of these fictions Fictive Fathers traces the eroding myth of paternal authority that sustained a patriarchal model within real American families and their literary representations

Constituting Identity Patrick Hanafin, 2001 Provides an in depth analysis of the constitutional representation of Ireland and its citizens In a society built on contradictions it is appropriate that the so called foundational document of the polity is itself a complex of conflicting positions The Irish Constitution can in this sense be read in a manner similar to the texts of literary modernism as a repository of irreconcilable ideas which together make up the text

Collected English Works of Yone Noguchi 野野宮 勇, 2010 Walking in Deserts, Writing Out of Wounds Kathrin Krämer, 2008 This analysis of selected texts by the Jewish American author Paul Auster demonstrates the importance of Jewish teaching and history in his work for the development of a deconstructive style of writing Marina Tsvetaeva's and Edmond Jabes dictum all poets are Jews serves as the focus on the aesthetic experience of alienation from language which corresponds to the alienation from Jewish tradition in Auster's poetry and prose In Auster's critical reception of Jacques Derrida this alienation appears as a wound initiating the writing process Since language is characterized by inconsistency and changeability the lyrical persona keeps walking on stony paths through desert like areas while its destination to render some sort of truth remains out of sight Focusing on Auster's poetry and his novels The Invention of Solitude City of Glass In the Country of Last Things and The Book of Illusions this investigation attempts to explain why the connection of Auster's aesthetic intentions with Jewish thought led him to abandon poetry altogether for the medium of prose The interpretation of the religious dimension of these novels offers new readings which move away from the fixation on postmodern playfulness and arbitrariness
