Generative Systems and Intelligent Tutoring Systems Sabine Graf, Angelos Markos, 2025-07-28. This book constitutes the refereed proceedings of the 21st International Conference on Intelligent Tutoring Systems (ITS 2025) held in Alexandroupolis, Greece during June 2-6, 2025. The 21 full papers, 27 short papers and 5 posters included in this book were carefully reviewed and selected from 67 submissions. The papers are organized in the following topical conference tracks: Part I: Generative Tutoring Systems. The goal of this part is to show how new techniques inspired by artificial intelligence (AI) and new methods in education can improve learning, teaching and generate the capacity for knowledge acquisition and much more. Part II: Application areas, environments and techniques for AI systems. This part shows the progress of research investigating the different application areas such as education, health, techniques such as neural networks, data mining, natural language processing and environments such as games, virtual reality, cognitive robots for effective AI systems.

Philosophy of Technology Pieter E. Vermaas,2011 In A Philosophy of Technology From Technical Artefacts to Sociotechnical Systems technology is analysed from a series of different perspectives The analysis starts by focussing on the most tangible products of technology called technical artefacts and then builds step wise towards considering those artefacts within their context of use and ultimately as embedded in encompassing sociotechnical systems that also include humans as operators and social rules like legislation Philosophical characterisations are given of technical artefacts their context of use and of sociotechnical systems Analyses are presented of how technical artefacts are designed in engineering and what types of technological knowledge is involved in engineering And the issue is considered how engineers and others can or cannot influence the development of technology These characterisations are complemented by ethical analyses of the moral status of technical artefacts and the possibilities and impossibilities for engineers to influence this status when designing artefacts and the sociotechnical systems in which artefacts are embedded The running example in the book is aviation where aeroplanes are examples of technical artefacts and the world aviation system is an example of a sociotechnical system Issues related to the design of quiet aeroplane engines and the causes of aviation accidents are analysed for illustrating the moral status of designing and the role of engineers therein Table of Contents Technical Artefacts Technical Designing Ethics and Designing Aircraft Take-off Performance and Risks for Wet and Contaminated Runways in Canada David C. Biggs, Transportation Development Centre (Canada), 1991 This report documents the results of a study into the risks associated with degraded performance during rejected and continued take off from wet and contaminated runways A comprehensive review of world wide accident and incident data was undertaken to identify the severity of the problem and the factors involved Runway condition characteristics the correlation of runway friction test devices with the friction experienced by aeroplanes and take off performance estimation on wet and contaminated runways were reviewed Performance estimates were examined on the basis of the ratio of contaminated vs dry friction A method is outlined for classifying runway conditions based upon ICAO SARPS FAA NASA trials and the practices of leading countries and airlines The frequency of wet and contaminated runways in Canada the likelihood of critical events on the take off run and the take off weight distribution were determined These frequency and probability distributions and runway weather and aircraft performance data were used in a probabilistic analysis of the risk of take off accidents A number of counter measures were examined including the JAR acceptable means of compliance for wet and contaminated runways
