Ceramic Design:

Santa Barbara Ceramic Design Terry Gerratana, 2011 With pottery production migrating to Asia in the latter part of the twentieth century Santa Barbara Ceramic Design SBCD was something of an anomaly a homegrown studio producing unique decorative and functional ceramic art This is the story of SBCD and how a studio pottery defined by one person producing hand thrown hand decorated pottery evolved into a full blown production pottery with distinct colorways shapes and designs Complete with copious primary sources and company ephemera this profile captures the voices of the creative forces behind SBCD its company culture and works that in many ways invoke the Arts and Crafts movement and earlier American potteries like Weller and Roseville Featuring chapters on studio marks an introduction by owner and founder Ray Markow and a year by year review from 1973 to 1987 this is the definitive volume on SBCD for the ceramics collector dealer student artist and historian

The Spirit of Ceramic Design Robert E. Piepenburg, 2009 Design is an integral component of the creative process and as an activity with identifiable and learnable skill sets it is innately connected to the spirit of mankind In partnership design and spirit provide the means for managing the intricacies of art and life in ways that transcend the margins of human creativity In this celebrated new book Robert Piepenburg gives you a beneficial guide for cultivating their creativeness with clay As you ll discover in these pages when ceramics works of art celebrate the expressions of spirit and personify core design concepts they embrace a heightened realization of meaning that is personally overpowering and universally inspiring In a myriad of ways designs in clay become the artistic footprints of spirit that we leave on the path of life As we create each footprint we affirm the originality of our existence and share the joy of being alive
