Cultural Collision:

Cultures in Conflict Urs Bitterli, Ritchie Robertson, 1989 Most histories of exploration are written from the viewpoint of the explorers This book now available in paperback focuses instead on the cultural encounters between European explorers and non European people reconstructing the experiences of both sides The result is a remarkable work of comparative cultural history ranging from North America to the South Pacific and from the voyages of Columbus to those of Captain Cook Bitterli distinguishes three basic forms of cultural encounter superficial contact as in the early relations between Europe and China a prolonged relationship like that between missionaries and the North American Indians and collision leading to the destruction of the weaker partner as happened in the Spanish Conquest of the West Indies and of Mexico In a series of case studies Bitterli examines these types of cultural encounter drawing on a wide range of primary sources Recruiting, Retaining, and Engaging African-American Males at Selective Public Research Universities Louis A. Castenell, Tarek C.

Grantham, Billy J. Hawkins, 2018-07-05 This book explores the challenges of recruiting retaining and engaging African American males at selective public research universities It examines traditions and elitist assumptions and discusses research policies and practices affecting African American males in pre collegiate preparation athletics and higher education initiatives

Why School Leaders Need Vision Bruce S. Cooper, Carlos R. McCray, Stephen V. Coffin, 2017-09-08 The concept of visionary leadership is defined and applied in this book as supervision in schools requires a level of SUPER VISION that can be best developed through quality leadership mentoring and mutual ideas and support for adding more value to the school This book shows just how vision is important and useful in all schools and districts Time has thus come to find build and use high quality visionary school leadership in its many dimensions thus this book takes at least ten different views in the chapters of the visionary roles and functions of education leadership in K 12 building on the roles theories and visionary actions of key players in the schools No single perspective is enough as all views must work in concert to the benefit of teachers and students today School leaders moreover need to have their own vision about the following a what their work entails b their school should be and look like and c what their staff and students and schools can achieve

Social Justice Leadership for a Global World Cynthia Gerstl-Pepin, Judith A. Aiken, 2012-07-23 This book explores social justice leadership in a global context addressing the interconnectedness of nations It emphasizes diverse and multicultural perspectives offering strategies for PK 12 and higher education leaders The focus is on promoting effective leadership that reflects multicultural understanding

Lessons from the Holy Wars Rob Asghar, 2010-01-15 An immigrant's son shuns his heritage and his homeland only to see them come to dominate headlines in a manner that forces him to come to a deeper understanding of himself and his world This notable collection of personal stories and cultural insights illuminates anew the grand American immigrant experience Just as notably Lessons from the Holy Wars is invaluable for anyone seeking insight into the encounter or collision of Islam and the West Filled with wonder and wit it offers a revealing perspective on the events of our day School Leadership in a Diverse Society Carlos R. McCray, Floyd D. Beachum, 2014-01-01 The purpose of this work is to broaden the scholarly dialogue in educational leadership and to address the changing role of the American school principal in the twenty first century with regard to increasing diversity in the United States This book seeks to provide theoretical and practical insight into the role of school principals dealing with an ever increasing multicultural student population We cover an array of issues that we believe are critical in order for the twenty first century school principal to be effective and relevant A primary inquiry that needs to be made is Are school leaders taking seriously the increasing social and cultural diversity in their schools It is the school principal who sets the tone for the school culture and who provides the vision as to the direction of the organization We endeavor to help scholars and practitioners have a better understanding of the importance of the diversity of their students and to give them the tools to appropriately lead schools in ways that ensure all students regardless of their life circumstances and status are provided a school climate that promotes high academic achievement and a sense of belonging

Collision Culture Kieran Keohane, Carmen Kuhling, 2004 The central premise of Collision Culture is that Ireland's experience of economic boom has resulted in the collision of incompatible ways of life These cultural collisions in Irish life today occur between the local and global between traditional and modern between Catholic and secular and between rural and urban They have become apparent in a variety of changes changes in patterns of rates of suicide in patterns of consumption in representations of Irish celebrities in patterns of home ownership in the rise of tribunals and in a variety of other points of public discourse and Irish culture The authors argue that the above categories clearly are not starkly divided but rather are analytic reference points that are useful in trying to understand the conflicts behind various social problems in Ireland By investigating cultures of everyday life driving housing music religion consumerism fashion and sexuality among others the book shows how recent social transformations are manifest at the everyday level

JSL Vol 25-N2 JOURNAL OF SCHOOL LEADERSHIP, 2015-03-26 The Journal of School Leadership is broadening the conversation about schools and leadership and is currently accepting manuscripts We welcome manuscripts based on cutting edge research from a wide variety of theoretical perspectives and methodological orientations The editorial team is particularly interested in working with international authors authors from traditionally marginalized populations and in work that is relevant to practitioners around the world Growing numbers of educators and professors look to the six bimonthly issues to deal with problems directly related to contemporary school leadership practice teach courses on school leadership and policy use as a quality reference in writing articles about school leadership and improvement

Cross-Cultural and Ideological Perceptions of the Other in: W.B. Yeats, James Joyce, Joseph Conrad, Chinua Achebe and Assia Djebar Malika Rebai Maamri, 2014-07-08 Doctoral Thesis Dissertation from the year 2009 in the subject Literature Comparative Literature grade P H D language English abstract This doctoral thesis investigates Otherness through works which have thoroughly examined and questioned the creation of a stable self by putting it in dialogue with its others and to society as a whole namely William Butler Yeats's selected poems James Joyce's Dubliners 1914 Joseph Conrad's Heart of Darkness 1899 Chinua Achebe's Things Fall Apart 1958 and Assia Djebar's L'Amour La Fantasia 1985 By representing the results of English Belgian and French oppression in tangible material terms as well as its spiritual bankruptcies these writers mark their works as clearly critical of the colonial regime and opposed to colonial exploitation positioning themselves as postcolonial through their representations In this sense their texts raise issues debated in current postcolonial discussions Speaking in the voice of the oppressed in the language of the oppressor as a weapon to make cultural difference visible these writers analyse the problem of identity crisis displacement disintegration and the effects of colonialism on the culture and psyche of the colonised subject Despite their differing conceptions of Irishness both William Butler Yeats and James Joyce repudiated things English and helped to defend their history as well as regain pride in their race The Other in these writers is presented not in terms of colour but conceived in relation to city countryside past present and Protestant Catholic The theoretical questions that haunted Chinua Achebe's career as a writer were also prompted by the desire to re-orientate cultural discourse and initiate a discourse of resistance In his commitment to questions relating to identity and the relationship of the individual and history Achebe like the above mentioned Irish writers contributed to the analysis of colonisation and the natives resistance to oppression both at the level of the individual and that of the nation As another marginalised writer Joseph Conrad anticipated Yeats's prophecy in his 1921 poem The Second Coming several years earlier with the publication of Heart of Darkness Whereas Yeats saw the spiral shapes of history Conrad saw the emptiness at the centre of civilisation and the atrocities at the margins He showed the hollow morality at the centre of the imperialist enterprise one that could not hold He too wrote about the paralysis of modern society the disruption of traditional society under the impact of intruding forces

Indians in Unexpected Places Philip Joseph Deloria, 2004 Despite the passage of time our vision of Native Americans remains locked up within powerful stereotypes That's why some images of Indians can be so unexpected and disorienting What is Geronimo doing sitting in a Cadillac Why is an Indian woman in beaded buckskin sitting under a salon hairdryer Such images startle and challenge our outdated visions even as the latter continue to dominate relations between Native and non Native Americans Philip Deloria explores this cultural discordance to show how stereotypes and Indian experiences have competed for ascendancy in the wake of the military conquest of Native America and the nation's subsequent embrace of Native authenticity. Rewriting the story of the national encounter with modernity, Deloria provides revealing accounts of Indians doing unexpected things: singing opera, driving cars, acting in Hollywood in ways that suggest new directions for American Indian history. Focusing on the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries, a time when, according to most standard American narratives, Indian people almost dropped out of history itself, Deloria argues that a great many Indians engaged the very same forces of modernization that were leading non-Indians to reevaluate their own understandings of themselves and their society. He examines longstanding stereotypes of Indians as invariably violent, suggesting that even as such views continued in American popular culture, they were also transformed by the violence at Wounded Knee. He tells how Indians came to represent themselves in Wild West shows and Hollywood films, and also examines sports, music, and even Indian people's use of the automobile, an ironic counterpoint to today's highways teeming with Dakota pickups and Cherokee sport utility vehicles. Throughout, Deloria shows us anomalies that resist pigeonholing and force us to rethink familiar expectations. Whether considering the Hollywood films of James Young Deer or the Hall of Fame baseball career of pitcher Charles Albert Bender, he persuasively demonstrates that a significant number of Indian people engaged in modernity and helped shape its anxieties and its textures at the very moment they were being defined as primitive. These secret histories, Deloria suggests, compel us to reconsider our own current expectations about what Indian people should be, how they should act, and even what they should look like. More important, he shows how such seemingly harmless, even if unconscious, expectations contribute to the racism and injustice that still haunt the experience of many Native American people today.
