

Coping with Culture Shock a Guide for International Students

What Is Culture Shock?

The term was introduced by Kalervo Oberg, a Canadian anthropologist, in 1954. It characterizes the feeling of disorientation that one experiences while visiting a country with different traditions, ways of living, climate, food, and language.

4 Forms of Culture Shock that Students Face

1. In-class culture shock is caused by the differences in educational systems, scoring patterns, and teaching methods. It is exacerbated by the lack of speaking practice.

2. Professional culture shock is caused by the differences in behavioral cues, dress code, and norms of email communication. It is exacerbated by stress.

3. Social culture shock is caused by the differences in unspoken social customs, habits, traditions, and culture. It is exacerbated by the lack of friends and family.

4. Sensory culture shock is caused by the differences in environment, weather conditions, food, and sounds. It is exacerbated by homesickness.

Culture Shock: 9 Typical Symptoms

Isolation	Homesickness	Depression
Physical aches	Decreased productivity	Poor sleep quality
Irritation	Procrastination	Anxiety

4 Phases of Culture Shock

1. Honeymoon
After you first arrive at a new place, you might be charmed by the differences you face.

2. Irritation
When the euphoria diminishes, you might feel irritated, confused, and overwhelmed.

3. Adjustment
The worst is over: you're getting used to the differences and achieving emotional balance.

4. Adaptation
You're feeling comfortable, can easily talk to strangers, and understand cultural nuances.

Overcoming Cultural Shock: 8 Tips for Students

Tip 1. Accept what is happening
Understand that culture shock is inevitable. The good news is that it is perfectly normal and will definitely be over.

Tip 2. Give yourself time to adapt
Do not demand everything from yourself at once. It might take some time to get used to the new environment.

Tip 3. Get the most out of it
Make a fun game out of your experience. Try new food and explore the neighborhood.

Tip 4. Make new friends
There are probably many students around you who also feel uncomfortable and shy. Don't be afraid to take the first step!

Tip 5. Take time to study
Schedule a meeting with your professor to make sure you understand the requirements. The sooner you start, the better you'll feel.

Tip 6. Stay connected to your family
Your family and friends can be pillars of support, especially in hard times. Communication with those you love will help you stay motivated.

Tip 7. Pursue your hobbies
Love reading, knitting, gardening, or exercising? Don't give up your hobbies. By the way, many universities have hobby clubs.

Tip 8. Seek professional help
If you're in distress, don't hesitate to contact your advisor or a mental health worker. Feel free to ask for help if needed.
