Culture, Space and the Nation-state, 2024      Culture, Economy, Power Winnie Lem, Belinda Leach, 2012-02-01
Grounded in a conviction that anthropological knowledge implies critique and that engaging in anthropology is also ultimately an act of praxis various contributors explore the ways in which the precepts of Marxism continue to illuminate and enhance our understanding of culture economy and politics They focus on the question of epistemology to examine the process of anthropological intellectual production in different national settings and analyze the ways in which hierarchies of power and forms of state domination figure in the formation of subjectivities in different ethnographic contexts The authors also reflect upon how class gender ethnicity racialized forms of ethnicity as well as regional and national identities are configured through the relationships involved in making a living under late capitalism      The Eastern Anthropologist, 2002
Annals of the National Association of Geographers, India, 2002      Social Movements, Old and New Rajendra Singh, 2001-07-23 This book is both about social movements and collective actions and about the discipline of sociology and prevailing concepts of Indian society Presenting a post modernist critique of the study of social movements Professor Rajendra Singh maintains that it is these movements which truly represent the contemporary nature of Indian society He thus challenges the dominant view that these struggles are expressions of disruption and a breakdown of the established social order The author goes on to argue for the need for a post sociology based on broader perspectives drawn from all the social science disciplines to fully grasp the realities of present day Indian society BOOK JACKET      South Asian Anthropologist, 2002      ICSSR Journal of Abstracts and Reviews Indian Council of Social Science Research, 2001
Economic and Political Weekly, 2003-04      Reconfiguring Identities and Building Territories in India and South Africa Philippe Gervais-Lambony, Frédéric Landy, Sophie Oldfield, 2005 Published in association with Centre de Sciences Humaines New Delhi Questions of territory space and identity are critically important in the international geopolitical context as well as central to contemporary research in the social sciences Processes connected with globalization have reconfigured identities and territories at multiple scales connecting and disconnecting places in complex ways and re enforcing old while producing new forms of segregation and polarisation Global processes meet the complex and locally specific South African and Indian geographies of inequality expressed at national regional and local scale In the South African case a political imperative to transform the legacies of racial inequality from colonial and apartheid rule underscores the centrality of racial identities However racial discourse and differentiation embodies and at times masks a complex mix of place based gender class and cultural identities expressed in a multi scalar politics of territory Over 50 years into independent rule Indian identity politics continues to build to a large extent on caste and the intricate ways in which caste affiliation merges with religious socio economic political and place based identities In both contexts the politics of identity and territory simultaneously unify and divide The spaces territories and identities re produced in the complex contexts in which the global national regional and local meet lie at the heart of the research from which the papers in this book have been generated The research investigated the reconfiguration of Indian and South African identities and territories through dialogue primarily between geographers but also other social scientists from India South Africa and France
