Abstraction In Avant Garde Films:

Abstraction in Avant-garde Films Maureen Cheryn Turim, 1985 Avant-garde Film Michael O'Pray, 2003 Annotation
Few aspects of American military history have been as vigorously debated as Harry Truman's decision to use atomic bombs against Japan. In this carefully crafted volume, Michael Kort describes the wartime circumstances and thinking that form the context for the decision to use these weapons, surveys the major debates related to that decision, and provides a comprehensive collection of key primary source documents that illuminate the behavior of the United States and Japan during the closing days of World War II. Kort opens with a summary of the debate over Hiroshima as it has evolved since 1945. He then provides a historical overview of the events in question, beginning with the decision and program to build the atomic bomb. Detailing the sequence of events leading to Japan's surrender, he revisits the decisive battles of the Pacific War and the motivations of American and Japanese leaders. Finally, Kort examines ten key issues in the discussion of Hiroshima and guides readers to relevant primary source documents, scholarly books, and articles.

Abstract Film and Beyond Malcolm Le Grice, 1981
Malcolm Le Grice, an important experimental filmmaker from England, film journalist for Studio International, and teacher, gives us a lucid account, both historical and theoretical, of the main preoccupations of abstract filmmakers. Le Grice begins with a painter, Cézanne, to show how his preoccupation with pictorial space is a key to any understanding of the notion of abstraction. He goes on to discuss the Futurists' cinema, the early abstract film experiments by Eggeling, Duchamp, and others in Germany and France of the 20s, the West Coast filmmakers of the 40s, and a stimulating view of the experimental film movement after WW II, including the works of Brakhage, Snow, Gidal, and Sharits. Art Direction: Whether or not one agrees with Le Grice's valuation of an alternate cinema, Abstract Film and Beyond clearly demonstrates that the cinema of the great twentieth century is not mere entertainment but an event of tremendous importance and implication. The Journal of Aesthetics and Art Criticism

The Performance of Trauma in Moving Image Art Dirk Cornelis de Bruyn, 2014-10-02
With reference to recent neurological research into Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD) using new imaging technologies and models of implicit and explicit memory systems developed from this research, The Performance of Trauma in Moving Image Art examines the capacity of an artist's cinema of experimental and avant-garde film to perform and communicate traumatic experience. De Bruyn analyses key films from the 1940s to the present that perform aspects of overwhelming experience through their approach, structure, content, and perceptual impact, mapping a trajectory from analogue to contemporary digital moving image practice. He argues for the inclusion of Peter Gidal's 1970s conception of materialist film into the genre of trauma cinema through its capacity to articulate unlocatability and perceptually perform disorientation and a flashback effect, all further identified here as key characteristics of digital moving image practice. The discussion explores the following questions: Can materialist film model traumatic memory and perform the traumatic flashback? Does the capacity to articulate trauma's unlocatability and invisibility give this practice a renewed relevance in digital media's preoccupation with surface and the impact of information overload De Bruyn's phenomenological traumatic reading of materialist film steps beyond Gidal's original anti-illusionist rationale to incorporate critiques effectively mounted against it by the founders of a 70s feminist psychoanalytic counter cinema This contemporary re-reading further re-evaluates the Minimalist turn in painting and sculpture after the Second World War arguing that this development is not essentialist or visionary but makes visible the implicit mechanisms of denial and erasure at the core of traumatic remembering For de Bruyn the initial traumatic impact of industrialization on the body's perceptual apparatus traceable through the advent of cinema and train travel is communicated by such moving image art The development of digital technology marks a new cycle of such perceptual re-balancing for which materialist film is uniquely positioned and which it critically addresses

Oskar Fischinger Cindy Keefer, Jaap Guldmond, 2013-09-10 A richly illustrated monograph exploring the position of Fischinger's abstract film language within the international avant-garde The German American filmmaker Oskar Fischinger is one of the main protagonists in the history of animation and abstract cinema From the 1920s onward this pioneer of visual music coupled abstract images with music and rhythms long before the arrival of the music video Fischinger was a true virtuoso who created complex animated patterns that develop dynamic rhythms harmonies and counterpoints He played an important and influential role in the development of early abstraction in film during the interwar period amid artistic movements such as Orphism Kupka Delaunay Neo-Plasticism Mondrian Van Doesburg Suprematism Melevich and Futurism Marinetti Boccioni In 1926 he began working with multiple projector performances creating some of the earliest cinematic immersive environments The book examines his animation and painting his use of music his experiences in Hollywood and his influence on today's filmmakers artists and animators and features previously unpublished documents including essays by Fischinger himself

Screening Modernism András Bálint Kovács, 2008-09-15 Casting fresh light on the renowned productions of auteurs like Antonioni Fellini and Bresson and drawing out from the shadows a range of important but lesser-known works Screening Modernism is the first comprehensive study of European art cinema's postwar heyday Spanning from the 1950s to the 1970s András Bálint Kovács's encyclopedic work argues that cinematic modernism was not a unified movement with a handful of styles and themes but rather a stunning range of variations on the core principles of modern art Illustrating how the concepts of modernism and the avant-garde variously manifest themselves in film Kovacs begins by tracing the emergence of art cinema as a historical category He then explains the main formal characteristics of modern styles and forms as well as their intellectual foundation Finally drawing on modernist theory and philosophy along the way he provides an innovative history of the evolution of modern European art cinema Exploring not only modernism's origins but also its stylistic thematic and cultural avatars Screening Modernism ultimately lays out creative new ways to think about the historical periods that comprise this golden age of film A History of Experimental Film and Video A.L. Rees,2019-07-25 Avant garde film is almost indefinable It is in a constant state of change and redefinition In his highly acclaimed history of experimental film A L Rees tracks the movement of the film avant garde between the cinema and modern art with its postmodern coda But he also reconstitutes the film avant garde as an independent form of art practice with its own internal logic and aesthetic discourse In this revised and updated edition Rees introduces experimental film and video to new readers interested in the wider cinema as well as offering a guide to enthusiasts of avant garde film and new media arts Ranging from C zanne and Dada via Cocteau Brakhage and Le Grice to the new wave of British film and video artists from the 1990s to the present day this expansive study situates avant garde film between the cinema and the gallery with many links to sonic as well as visual arts The new edition includes a review of current scholarship in avant garde film history and includes updated reading and viewing lists It also features a new introduction and concluding chapter which assess the rise of video projection in the gallery since the millennium and describe new work by the latest generation of experimental film makers The new edition is richly illustrated with images of the art works discussed Moving Modernism Nell Andrew,2020-03-11 Moving Modernism reenacts the simultaneous eruption of three spectacular revolutions the development of pictorial abstraction the first modern dance and the birth of cinema which together changed the artistic landscape of early twentieth century Europe and the future of modern art This study follows the chronology of the historical avant garde to show how dance and pictures were engaged in a kindred exploration of the limits of art and perception that required the process of abstraction Swimming Upstream: A Lifesaving Guide to Short Film Distribution Sharon Badal,2012-07-26 Short films have come into their own not least in part due to the incredible new ways to distribute them including the Web cell phones new festivals devoted to shorts even television and theatres This is the ultimate guide for anyone who's made a short film and wonders what to do next Whether your short film is meant to be a calling card a segue to a feature film or you just want to recoup some of the costs this book describes the potential paths for distribution Written by the short film programmer of the Tribeca Film Festival and featuring contributions from top film festival directors as well as studio marketing and technology executives this book shows you what's important to the decision makers and gatekeepers This is the definitive handbook filled with insider information available nowhere else

Post-Theory David Bordwell,Noel Carroll,2012-11 Since the 1970s the academic study of film has been dominated by Structuralist Marxism varieties of cultural theory and the psychoanalytic ideas of Freud and Lacan With Post Theory David Bordwell and Noel Carroll have opened the floor to other voices challenging the prevailing practices of film scholarship. Addressing topics as diverse as film scores, national film industries, and audience response, Post Theory offers fresh directions for understanding film.

Lovers of Cinema Jan-Christopher Horak, 1995. Marshaling his broad cinematic and cultural knowledge, editor Jan-Christopher Horak has compiled in Lovers of Cinema a groundbreaking group of articles on this neglected film period. With one exception, all are original to this volume, and many are the first to treat comprehensively such early filmmakers as Mary Ellen Bute, Theodore Huff, and Douglass Crockwell. Also included in the book is a listing of all American avant-garde films produced in the years before World War II, as well as a bibliography of the most relevant criticism literature and news accounts.

The Avant-Garde Feature Film William E.B. Verrone, 2011-11-08. Here is a critical and historical overview of unconventional and aesthetically challenging films, all of feature length. The author focuses on the particular forms of contemporary avant-garde films, which often rely on characteristics associated with historical films of the same genre. Included are works by such visionary filmmakers as David Lynch, Luis Bunuel, Jean Cocteau, Jean-Luc Godard, Guy Maddin, and Derek Jarman. The first of the two appendices contains a filmography of key avant-garde feature films from Haxan, Witchcraft Through the Ages (1922), to Maximum Shame (2010). The second appendix offers a brief list of directors who have made significant contributions to films that take alternative approaches to cinematic practice, establishing new grounds for analysis and evaluation.

Lessons in Perception Paul Taberham, 2018-06-19. Narrative, comprehension, memory, motion, depth, perception, synesthesia, hallucination, and dreaming have long been objects of fascination for cognitive psychologists. They have also been among the most potent sources of creative inspiration for experimental filmmakers. Lessons in Perception melds film theory and cognitive science in a stimulating investigation of the work of iconic experimental artists such as Stan Brakhage Robert Breer Maya Deren and Jordan Belson In illustrating how avant garde filmmakers draw from their own mental and perceptual capacities author Paul Taberham offers a compelling account of how their works expand the spectator s range of aesthetic sensitivities and open creative vistas uncharted by commercial cinema How to Enter & Win Film Contests Alan Gadney,1981
