

Auditing disclosures in financial statements

In recent years, the International Auditing and Assurance Standards Board (IAASB) has considered the issue of auditing disclosures in financial statements, prompted by a number of factors including developments in IFRS requirements and the increased level of complexity and subjectivity involved in the preparation of information to be disclosed in financial statements. This article examines this issue, and reminds candidates to review the examinable documents list for guidance.

Disclosures in financial statements

Auditors are required to express an opinion on the financial statements as a whole. This includes the notes to the financial statements which are an integral part of the accounts, providing additional information on balances and transactions and other relevant information. Therefore, it is important that during all stages of the audit the auditor gives appropriate consideration to, and plans to obtain sufficient and appropriate audit evidence in relation to the disclosures made in the notes to the financial statements.

ISA 200, Overall Objectives of the Independent Auditor and the Conduct of an Audit in Accordance with International Standards on Auditing specifies that the financial statements include related notes which 'comprise a summary of the significant accounting policies and other explanatory information'.

The notes to financial statements contain different types of information, some quantitative and some qualitative, as required by IFRS. Some examples are given below:

Quantitative disclosures:

- Disaggregation and analysis of balances and transactions included in the financial statements, for example of property, plant and equipment, intangible assets, provisions, lease obligations, financial instruments.
- Segmental analysis of revenue, profit and certain other items, and information about major customers (for listed companies).
- Summarised financial information in relation to associates and joint ventures.

Qualitative disclosures:

- Descriptions of significant accounting policies and areas where critical accounting judgement has been exercised, and rationale for any changes in accounting policies.

Corporate Social Responsibility Reporting in China Jieqi Guan,Carlos Noronha,2017-10-25 In recent years Corporate Social Responsibility CSR reporting in China has been experiencing a rapid development and the number of social reports issued by Chinese enterprises shows a sharp increasing trend This book investigates the evolution of such reporting practice in the country and the reasons behind it In addition it also examines the reporting quantity and quality of Chinese enterprises by applying the GRI Global Reporting Initiative as an evaluation tool In response to policy documents so as to obtain the government s recognition and to strive for more resources state owned enterprises private enterprises and foreign invested companies have made substantial efforts in social reporting in terms of quantity and coverage However it appears that there is still room for enhancing the quality of disclosure The book also highlights the central government s economic political and social roles in promoting encouraging and controlling the development of CSR reporting Social and Environmental Disclosure by Chinese Firms Yingjun Lu,Indra Abeysekera,2024-11-01 Given the increased social and environmental problems in China this book looks into the social and environmental disclosure practices of socially responsible Chinese listed firms by constructing a stakeholder driven three dimensional disclosure index The book contains a three part study the first part explores the current status of social and environment disclosure practices The second part empirically examines the relationship between corporate social and environmental disclosure and various influencing factors i e stakeholders power and corporate characteristics The third part empirically examines the link between corporate social responsibility CSR reporting i e publishing a CSR report and the quality of the CSR report and socially responsible reputation The book finds that the CSR report provided more stakeholder relevant social and environmental disclosure than the annual report It also finds that corporate characteristics such as firm size profitability and industry classification are all statistically significant factors influencing the social and environmental disclosure of the Chinese firms studied Shareholders significantly influenced firms social and environmental disclosure and creditors significantly influenced firms disclosure related to their environmental performance The final part of the study reports that publishing a CSR report and CSR reporting quality had a positive influence on firms socially responsible reputations and that the CEO chairman duality negatively influenced firms socially responsible reputation This book will be of interest to those who are keen to learn more about corporate social responsibilities in the context of Chinese firms
