Death And Architecture:

Death and Architecture James Stevens Curl,2002 Richly illustrated with over 350 photographs plans and engravings this fascinating and unusual book examines the importance of funerary architecture in the development of architectural style It reveals many hidden wonders and beauties throughout the world The Architecture of Death Richard A. Etlin,1987-01 In the eighteenth century Paris underwent a remarkable transformation in Western attitudes about life and death The Architecture of Death traces this change through six pivotal decades and analyzes the intellectual and social concerns that led to the establishment of a new kind of urban institution the municipal cemetery Drawing heavily on new materials and archival sources supported by nearly 270 plans photographs and drawings the book is not only a definitive work on the design of cemeteries but is also the cultural history of an age The Space of Death Michel Ragon,1983 Death + Architecture out loud journal,2017-11-10 Death has held a principle role in shaping the built environment across the globe from the monumental scale of the Great Pyramids at Giza to the intimate scale of Brion Vega As the world s population has begun increasing at an exponential rate in recent decades the relationship between major cities such as London and Tokyo and their dead has become an intricate and complicated one DEATH ARCHITECTURE Issue 001 of the out loud journal examines the juxtaposition of death and architecture delving into the ever changing sociological responsibilities of architecture and the constant unchanging condition of death This issue touches on topics such as the status of land and its value in growing cities historical trends of burial grounds in cities recent innovations regarding the handling of the dead and the stigmas surrounding radical changes in the ways we lay to rest those who have passed on The publication combines perspectives from experts in the field with the results of the international architectural design competition Death in the City Death in Architecture Kelley Moore,1998 Designs on Death Hilary Grainger,2020-09-03 Despite seven out of ten people in Scotland choosing cremation in many ways crematoria are invisible buildings visited only by necessity and they have not received the attention they deserve Crematoria present a real challenge for architects They are paradoxical buildings religious and secular functional and symbolic required to satisfy the practical and emotional needs of all faiths and none This book provides architectural biographies of Scotland s thirty one crematoria explaining their increasing relevance in contemporary Scottish society and pointing to Scotland s distinctive contribution to the progress of cremation and the architecture of crematoria Many leading architects and craftsmen including Sir Robert Lorimer and Sir Basil Spence produced designs of great architectural merit and Scottish local authorities led the way in designing some of the most progressive crematoria in the UK These singular often contested buildings many in magnificent natural landscape settings reveal a great deal about the complex changing and distinctive attitudes to death and funeral rituals in Scotland Beautifully illustrated with drawings plans and specially commissioned photographs by Steve Wallace formerly of Historic Environment Scotland this pioneering book establishes the significance of a neglected area of Scotland s cultural heritage Designs on

Death Hilary J. Grainger, 2020-10-01 Despite seven out of ten people in Scotland choosing cremation in many ways crematoria are invisible buildings visited only by necessity and they have not received the attention they deserve Crematoria present a real challenge for architects They are paradoxical buildings religious and secular functional and symbolic required to satisfy the practical and emotional needs of all faiths and none This book provides architectural biographies of Scotland's thirty one crematoria explaining their increasing relevance in contemporary Scottish society and pointing to Scotland's distinctive contribution to the progress of cremation and the architecture of crematoria Many leading architects and craftsmen including Sir Robert Lorimer and Sir Basil Spence produced designs of great architectural merit and Scottish local authorities led the way in designing some of the most progressive crematoria in the UK These singular often contested buildings many in magnificent natural landscape settings reveal a great deal about the complex changing and distinctive attitudes to death and funeral rituals in Scotland Architecture Post Mortem Donald Kunze, David Bertolini, Simone Brott, 2016-04-15 Architecture Post Mortem surveys architecture's encounter with death decline and ruination following late capitalism As the world moves closer to an economic abyss that many perceive to be the death of capital contraction and crisis are no longer mere phases of normal market fluctuations but rather the irruption of the unconscious of ideology itself Post mortem is that historical moment wherein architecture's symbolic contract with capital is put on stage naked to all Architecture is not irrelevant to fiscal and political contagion as is commonly believed it is the victim and penetrating analytical agent of the current crisis As the very apparatus for modernity's guilt and unfulfilled drives modernity's debt architecture is that ideological element that functions as a master signifier of its own destruction ordering all other signifiers and modes of signification beneath it It is under these conditions that architecture theory has retreated to an Alamo of history a final desert outpost where history has been asked to transcend itself For architecture's hoped for utopia always involves an apocalypse This timely collection of essays reformulates architecture's relation to modernity via the operational death drive architecture is but a passage between life and death This collection includes essays by Kazi K Ashraf David Bertolini Simone Brott Peggy Deamer Didem Ekici Paul Emmons Donald Kunze Todd McGowan Gevork Hartoonian Nadir Lahiji Erika Naginski and Dennis Maher C3, 2013 Death and Architecture Building the End Uje Lee, 2013 Death Redesign Hilary J. Grainger, 2005 Cremation was rediscovered in the late nineteenth century popularised in the twentieth and now more than two thirds of us are cremated after death This method of disposal required a wholly unprecedented building type both functional and symbolic set in a new landscape for mourning The 251 crematoria in Britain have to suit both the practical and emotional needs of the religious and non religious Christians and those of other faiths Yet until now they have not had the attention their importance and interest deserve This book examines the special historical social and cultural conditions that lie behind them The buildings some by leading architects often display real architectural merit and many are set in gardens representing the very finest traditions of twentieth century landscape design An illustrated gazetteer provides comprehensive information about each one Monument Builders Edwin Heathcote, 1999-03-02 This is a study of buildings created to honour the dead It explores the links between socio religious and existential perceptions of death and how this has been interpreted in architecture over the 20th century A Celebration of Death James Stevens Curl, 1980

The Space of Death Michel Ragon, Architecture and Fire Stamatis Zografos, 2019-06-12 Architecture and Fire develops a conceptual reassessment of architectural conservation through the study of the intimate relationship between architecture and fire Stamatis Zografos expands on the general agreement among many theorists that the primitive hut was erected around fire locating fire as the first memory of architecture at the very beginning of architectural evolution Following the introduction Zografos analyses the archive and the renewed interest in the study of archives through the psychoanalysis of Jacques Derrida He moves on to explore the ambivalent nature of fire employing the conflicting philosophies of Gaston Bachelard and Henri Bergson to do so before discussing architectural conservation and the relationship between listed buildings the function of archives and the preservation of memories from the past The following chapter investigates how architecture evolves by absorbing and accommodating fire while the penultimate chapter examines the critical moment of architectural evolution the destruction of buildings by fire with a focus on the tragic disaster at London's Grenfell Tower in 2017 Zografos concludes with thoughts on Freud's drive theory He argues the practice of architectural conservation is an expression of the life drive and a simultaneous repression of the death drive which suggests controlled destruction should be an integral part of the conservation agenda Architecture and Fire is founded in new interdisciplinary research navigating across the boundaries of architecture conservation archival theory classical mythology evolutionary theory thermodynamics philosophy and psychoanalysis It will be of interest to readers working in and around these disciplines Reading Architecture with Freud and Lacan Lorens Holm, 2022-09-30 Reading Architecture with Freud and Lacan Shadowing the Public Realm methodically outlines key concepts in psychoanalytic discourse by reading them against key modern and post modern architects It begins with what is arguably the central concept for each discipline by putting the unconscious in a dialectic relation to space Each subsequent chapter begins with a detail in architectural discourse a kind of provocation that anchors each excursion into the thought of Freud and Lacan The text is cyclical episodic and cloudlike rather than expository the intention is not simply to explain the concept of the unconscious but to different degrees perform it in the text The book offers powerful critiques of current planning practice which has no tools to address our attachment to places It concludes with powerful critiques of our incapacity to change the environmentally damaging ways we live our lives which is an effect of our incapacity to recognise the presence of the death drive in our nature The text is an extended thesis spanning the chapters that the field of the Other is the common grammar that organises subjects into civilisations which has consequences for how we treat the public realm in architecture politics and the city The field of the Other is a slightly different slice through the urban social world It shadows but does not correspond exactly to more familiar categories like private public inside outside figure ground or piazza boulevard Reading Architecture with Freud and Lacan will be an essential resource to anyone interested in how the environment we build is a reflection of our desire Psychoanalysis is one of the great humanist discourses of the 20th century and this book will be a valuable reference to the humanist in architects planners and social scientists whether they are students professionals or amateurs It will appeal to historians of the 20th century and to psychoanalysts and architects who are interested in how their respective discourses interdigitate with each other and with other discourses

The Strange Death of Architectural Criticism Martin Pawley, 2007 The Strange Death of Architectural Criticism is a collection of 100 essays and articles by Martin Pawley one of the most important and entertaining voices in post war architectural criticism Pawley studied architecture at the Oxford School of Architecture the Ecole Nationale Supérieure des Beaux Arts in Paris and the Architectural Association in London before embarking on a distinguished career as a writer teacher critic and broadcaster A former editor of Building Design Pawley was later architecture critic of The Guardian and The Observer and has contributed to The Architects Journal RIBA Journal and Blueprint amongst other publications Spanning Pawley's 40 year career The Strange Death of Architectural Criticism is a celebration of his remarkable body of work Beginning with his AA diploma thesis The Time House the book includes writings on contemporary design iconic buildings and some of the most important issues facing modern architecture as well as interviews with architects including Norman Foster Buckminster Fuller Leon Krier and Zaha Hadid By turns poignant coruscating controversial and humorous but always original and insightful this book is a reminder of how exhilarating architectural writing at its best can be 60 duotone illustrations

The Death of Drawing David Scheer, 2014-06-05 The Death of Drawing explores the causes and effects of the epochal shift from drawing to computation as the chief design and communication medium in architecture Drawing both framed the thinking of architects and organized the design and construction process to place architects at its center Its displacement by building information modeling BIM and computational design recasts both the terms in which architects think and their role in building production Author David Ross Scheer explains that whereas drawing allowed architects to represent ideas in form BIM and computational design simulate experience making building behavior or performance the primary object of design The author explores many ways in which this displacement is affecting architecture the dominance of performance criteria in the evaluation of design decisions the blurring of the separation of design and construction the undermining of architects authority over their projects by automated information sharing the elimination of the human body as the common foundation of design and experience the transformation of the meaning of geometry when it is performed by computers the changing nature of design when it requires computation or is done by a digitally enabled collaboration Throughout the book Scheer examines both the theoretical bases and the practical consequences of these changes The Death of Drawing is a clear eyed account of the reasons for and consequences of the displacement of drawing by computational media in architecture Its aim is to give architects the ability to assess the impact of digital media on their own work and to see both the challenges and opportunities of this historic moment in the history of their discipline

Death and Memory Sir John Soane's Museum, 2015 This book of essays is published to coincide with an exhibition of the same title at Sir John Soane's Museum Lincoln's Inn Fields London October 23 2015 March 26 2016 commemorating the 200th anniversary of Soane's beloved wife Eliza's death on November 22 1815 Its relevance to Soane studies is however much broader with essays shedding new light on the architecture of legacy in Sir John Soane's Museum Soane's preoccupation with memorialization as revealed in the design process for the Soane family tomb the legacy of his drawings collection and Soane's attempt shortly before his death to sustain future interest in his collections by creating a series of time capsules The essays written by the curatorial team at Sir John Soane's Museum are accompanied by 39 illustrations in full color some of them published for the first time

Sir John Soane? Influence on Architecture from 1791 Oliver Bradbury, 2017-07-05 Sir John Soane's Influence on Architecture from 1791 A Continuing Legacy is the first in depth study of this eighteenth century British architect's impact on the work of others extending globally and still indeed the case over 200 years later Author Oliver Bradbury presents a compelling argument that the influence of Soane 1753 1837 has persevered through the centuries rather than waning around the time of his death Through examinations of internationally renowned architects from Benjamin Henry Latrobe to Philip Johnson as well as a number of not so well known Soanean disciples Bradbury posits that Soane is perhaps second only to Palladio in terms of the longevity of his influence on architecture through the course of more than two centuries from the early 1790s to today concluding with the recent return to pure revivalism Previous investigations have been limited to focusing on Soane's late Georgian and then post modern influence this is the first in depth study of his impact over the course of two centuries Through this survey Bradbury demonstrates that Soane's influence has been truly international in the pre modern era reaching throughout the British Isles and beyond to North America and even colonial Australia Through his inclusion of select detailed case studies Bradbury contends that Soane's is a continuing not negated legacy in architecture
