Death Is The Issue:

Death: Beyond Whole-Brain Criteria Richard M. Zaner, 2012-12-06 From the tone of the report by the President's Commission for the Study of Ethical Problems in Medicine and Biomedical and Behavioral Research one might conclude that the whole brain oriented definition of death is now firmly established as an enduring element of public policy In that report Defining Death Medical Legal and Ethical Issues in the Determination of Death the President's Commission forwarded a uniform determination of death act which laid heavy accent on the significance of the brain stem in determining whether an individual is alive or dead An individual who has sustained either 1 irreversible cessation of circulatory and respiratory functions or 2 irreversible cessation of all functions of the entire brain including the brain stem is dead A determination of death must be made in accordance with accepted medical standards 1 p 2 The plausibility of these criteria is undermined as soon as one confronts the question of the level of treatment that ought to be provided to human bodies that have permanently lost consciousness but whose brain stems are still functioning
