Learning, Teaching, and Musical Identity Lucy Green, 2011-03-30 Musical identity raises complex multifarious and fascinating questions. Discussions in this new study consider how individuals construct their musical identities in relation to their experiences of formal and informal music teaching and learning. Each chapter features a different case study situated in a specific national or local socio-musical context spanning 20 regions across the world. Subjects range from Ghanaian or Balinese villagers festival goers in Lapland and children in a South African township to North American and British students adults and children in a Cretan brass band and Gujarati barbers in the Indian diaspora.

Classroom Discourse Competence Katrin Thomson, 2022-04-04 In language learning contexts, the role of the language teacher is a particularly crucial one. It is the teacher who through and with their use of the foreign language has a significant influence on the extent to which language learners are linguistically cognitively activated and thus determines whether processes of language learning are initiated and promoted or perhaps even impeded or prevented. Thus, it is of utmost importance for language teachers to acquire a high level of classroom discourse competence, a professional competence that goes far beyond the notions of FL proficiency and communicative competence. Located at the intersection of theory, classroom research, and practical approaches to EFL teacher education, Classroom Discourse Competence: Current Issues in Language Teaching and Teacher Education offers university students, trainee teachers, in-service teachers, and teacher educators a comprehensive conceptualization of CDC. Part I Furthermore, the chapters in this book explore facets of CDC. Part II and present good practice examples of CDC development in the context of pre-service teacher education. Part III
