Fundamental Rights in EU Internal Market Legislation Vasiliki Kosta, 2015-11-05 This book attempts to systematise the present interrelationship between fundamental rights and the EU internal market in the field of positive integration Its intention is simple to examine the way in which and the extent to which fundamental rights protection is realised through EU internal market legislation To that end the analysis is conducted around four rights or sets of rights data protection freedom of expression fundamental labour rights and the right to health The book assesses not only what substantive level of protection is achieved for these fundamental rights but it also estimates whether there is a fundamental rights culture that informs current legislative practice Finally it asks the overarching question whether the current state of harmonisation amounts to a fundamental rights policy The book offers a much more varied picture of the EU's fundamental rights policy in and through the EU internal market than perhaps initially expected Moreover it builds the case for a more conscious approach to dealing with and enhancing fundamental rights protection in and through internal market legislation and advocates a leading role for the legislature in the establishment of an internal market that is firmly based on respect for fundamental rights

Judicial Authority in EU Internal Market Law Vilija Velyvyte,2022-11-17 This book examines the role of the European Court of Justice in the regulation of the internal market from a competence perspective However rather than focusing on the Court s role in enforcing the limits of EU competence in the EU s political decision making it explores a related albeit understudied question to what extent does the Court observe the constitutional limits of EU competence and its own institutional powers in the interpretation of EU internal market law laid down in the Treaties The book provides an answer to this question through the analysis of EU free movement case law in light of the constitutional principles that govern the allocation of competences and powers in the EU conferral subsidiarity and proportionality on the vertical level and institutional balance on the horizontal level Why should the Court be bound by these principles What do they mean when applied to judicial practice To what extent are they observed in the free movement case law The book argues that the Court s observance of the four principles has been inconsistent thereby creating substantive and constitutional tensions in the EU s relationship with the Member States and upsetting the institutional balance of powers

The Commission is the most powerful institution in the EU but the Court of Justice is the most important. Timo Hohmuth, 2004-11-09 Essay aus dem Jahr 2000 im Fachbereich Jura Europarecht V lkerrecht Internationales Privatrecht Note 65 % 14 Punkte University of Newcastle upon Tyne Law School Veranstaltung Seminar Sprache Deutsch Abstract The question is if the European Commission is the most powerful institution in the EU but the ECJ the most important Is that true It is however a mixed law and fact question Looking at the power and the importance of these institutions leads into a similar direction The Treaties give the institutions different rights and competencies The factual importance can be measured by focusing on their actual achievements The term institution refers to all facilities of the Community The system of the arrangement of the institutions is not created following the principle of the balance of powers known from states constitutions Especially there is no strict division between legislative and executive power Only the judicial power has some kind of its own but factually not pure section The four main institutions of the European Community are as set out in the Treaty the Parliament the Council the Commission and the Court of Justice The rights of the Parliament are only a few Generally the Council can be considered as the most powerful and therefore most important institution of the Community art 202 et seq ECT because it is the main legislator and executes all the important legislation regulations directives only sometimes in co operation with the Parliament art 251 ECT
