

Technical Definition Analysis

Assignment Instructions

Locate an expanded definition of an item, process, or product from one of your textbooks in another class, ideally one from your program major. Answer the following questions about the definition. In your responses, quote from the document when necessary, to illustrate your reasoning.

1. Classify the item as precisely as possible, i.e., a metabolic disease, for diabetes. How does the definition adequately classify this item, or does it need further expansion?
2. How does the definition successfully differentiate the item or term from other related items or terms?
3. How does the definition connect with the technical abilities of their audience, i.e., think carefully about the word choice in the document?
4. How does the definition avoid circular definitions and needless details for its audience?
5. How does the definition include visuals to help the audience interpret the item or term?
