Славянские языки — группа родственных индоевропейских языков. Отличаются большой степенью близости друг к другу. Внутри славянской языковой группы выделяются несколько подгрупп: восточнославянскую (русский, украинский и белорусский), южнославянскую (болгарский, македонский, словенский и сербохорватский) и западнославянскую (польский, чешский, словацкий языки, а также серболужицкие языки).

Из языков индоевропейской семьи к славянским ближе всего балтийские: современные литовский, латышский и вымерший древнерусский. Из члена выводится гипотеза, согласно которой прабалты и праславяне пережили период общности, и реконструируется прабалтославянский язык, который позднее распался на праславянский и прабалтийский языки. В свою очередь, прабалтославянский язык восходит к праиндоевропейскому языку, от которого произошли как балтославянские, так и германские, романские, кельтские и индранские языки.
