Ascent To Omai:

Ascent to Omai Wilson Harris, 2018 Wilson Harris's ninth novel first published in 1970 is a work of the most revolutionary and far-reaching kind of science or speculative fiction. Victor is in search of his father Adam, once a revolutionary worker who was sent to prison many years ago for burning down the factory he worked in. Since then, Victor has lost touch with him but suspects he is living as a pork knocker gold prospector in the remote Cuyuni Mazaruni district of Guyana. As he climbs in search of his father, Victor both revisits his past relationship with him and replays his father's trial, which also becomes his own. Victor's search is for spiritual grace, for the compensations of love and the glimmerings of a true understanding of the world he exists in, and the reader is invited to share in Victor's struggling ascent to consciousness, knowing that it can never be other than provisional.

A History of Literature in the Caribbean: English- and Dutch-speaking countries Albert James Arnold, Julio Rodríguez-Luis, J. Michael Dash, 2001-01-01 For the first time, the Dutch-speaking regions of the Caribbean and Suriname are brought into fruitful dialogue with another major American literature, that of the anglophone Caribbean. The results are as stimulating as they are unexpected. The editors have coordinated the work of a distinguished international team of specialists. Read separately or as a set of three volumes, the History of Literature in the Caribbean is designed to serve as the primary reference book in this area. The reader can follow the comparative evolution of a literary genre or plot the development of a set of historical problems under the appropriate heading for the English or Dutch-speaking region. An extensive index to names and dates of authors and significant historical figures completes the volume. The subeditors bring to their respective specialty areas a wealth of Caribbeanist experience. Vera M. Kutzinski is Professor of English, American, and Afro-American Literature at Yale University. Her book Sugar's Secrets: Race and The Erotics of Cuban Nationalism (1993) treated a crucial subject in the romance of the Caribbean nation. Ineke Phaf Rheinberger has been very active in Latin American and Caribbean literary criticism for two decades, first at the Free University in Berlin and later at the University of Maryland. The editor of A History of Literature in the Caribbean, A. James Arnold, is Professor of French at the University of Virginia, where he founded the New World Studies graduate program. Over the past twenty years, he has been a pioneer in the historical study of the Négritude movement and its successors in the francophone Caribbean.

The Labyrinth of Universality Hena Maes-Jelinek, 2006 Wilson Harris, many times nominated for the Nobel Prize in Literature, is a British writer of Guyanese origin, one of the most original novelists and critics of the twentieth century and probably the first to use and interpret the aesthetically fruitful notion of cross-culturalism. Harris's insights into the profound symbiosis between history, culture, and artistic expression were initially inspired by his encounters with Amerindians in the Guyanese rainforest interior, where he led many surveying expeditions. These encounters aroused his interest in pre-Columbian peoples, who figure prominently in many of his novels and stories. His perception of the Guyanese landscape is the source of his unique narrative rhetoric, richly metaphoric language, and philosophy of existence, i.e., the epistemological and phenomenological.

interrelatedness between man animal life and nature The present study offers magisterial in depth interpretations of Harris s exhilaratingly complex and shape shifting fictional worlds Discrepant Engagement Nathaniel Mackey,1993-09-24

Discrepant Engagement addresses work by black writers from the United States and the Caribbean and the so called Black Mountain poets The Contemporary Novel Irving Adelman,Rita Dworkin,1997-10-09 In this new edition what was already an expansive work has been updated and further enlarged to include information not only on American and British novelists but also on writers in English from around the world Explorations S. Ramaswamy,1988 West Indian Literature Jeannette B. Allis,1981 University of Kansas City Review ,1969 British Writers Jay Parini,2008 Covers hundreds of writers who have made contributions to British Irish and Commonwealth literature from the 14th century to the present day Introductory essays and chronological tables open each volume and provide historical background Each Supplement covers approximately 20 additional authors British Writers Ian Scott-Kilvert,Jay Parini,1987 Covers writers who have made significant contributions to British Irish and Commonwealth literature from the fourteenth century to the present day Includes in depth critical and biographical analysis The Literate Imagination Michael Gilkes,1989 The Literate Imagination is a series of critical essays on the literature of West Indian novelist Wilson Harris receiver of a Guggenheim award in 1972 and awarded the Guyana National prize for Fiction in 1988 MLA International Bibliography of Books and Articles on the Modern Languages and Literatures ,1991 Vols for 1969 include ACTFL annual bibliography of books and articles on pedagogy in foreign languages 1969 Georgetown Journal Andrew Salkey,1972 New Letters ,1973 Transplanted Imaginaries K.
