Communication Studies:

Microhistories of Communication Studies Pat Gehrke, 2018-04-19 The story of an academic discipline is usually conveyed in grand movements and long spans but it can also be told through the lives of individual scholars through the development of specialties through the creation and change of departments and through the formation and transformation of organizations Using twelve histories of micro dimensions of communication studies this volume shows how sometimes small decisions single scholars individual departments and marginalized voices can have dramatic roles in the history and future of an academic discipline As a compilation of micro histories with macro lessons this volume stands alone in communication studies Read as a companion to A Century of Communication Studies the National Communication Association's centennial volume it offers rich detail missing links and local narratives that fully flesh out the discipline In either case no education in communication studies is complete without an understanding of the themes challenges and triumphs embodied by the twelve micro histories offered in this book This book was originally published as two special issues of Review of Communication

Communication Studies Andrew Beck, 2004 Critical Communication Studies Hanno Hardt, 1992 The development of communication studies has been a lively process of adoption and integration of theoretical constructs from Pragmatism Critical Theory and Cultural Studies Critical Communication Studies describes the intellectual and professional forces that have shaped research interests and formed alliances in the pursuit of particular goals Hanno Hardt reflects on the need to come to terms with the role of history in academic work and locates the intellectual history within the context of competing

social theories The book provides a substantive foundation for understanding the field and will be a major text in all courses dealing with communication history and theory Communication Studies Andrew Beck, Peter Bennett, Peter Wall, 2004 This textbook brings together a comprehensive collection of primary source material for those studying communications at university and pre university level Extracts include a range of texts from academic and non academic works including journalism and writings on film television and popular culture Each extract in the book is accompanied by commentary which places the writing in its historical and critical context The editors discuss the significance of each piece of writing identify key theoretical terms and positions and explain its importance for communication studies An Introduction to Communication Studies Sheila Steinberg, 2007 In this introductory textbook the author contextualises approaches and theories on communication studies by making use of local examples from the mass media as well as relevant political and social experiences The book is divided into two parts The first provides students with a strong foundation in communication while the second focuses on the areas of specialisation within communication studies Each chapter starts with the learning Outcomes and a short overview of the chapter Students can monitor their learning by using the summaries and test yourself questions at the end of every chapter Scenarios provide examples of how the theory can be applied in practice This makes for a learner friendly and accessible book which will prove invaluable to Students and professionals alike Beginner students majoring in Communication Studies as well as those studying towards various degrees or qualifications where communication is a prerequisite will find this book useful Basics of Communication Studies Scott McLean, 2011-11-21 This is the eBook of the printed book and may not include any media website access codes or print supplements that may come packaged with the bound book Updated in this 2nd edition The Basics of Communication Studies introduces students to human communication in a clear concise and engaging way It presents the nuts and bolts of human communication without excessive detail delivering the necessary material on communication without being overwhelming or cost prohibitive University of Michigan Official Publication University of Michigan, 1997 Each number is the catalogue of a specific school or college of the University A Primer on Communication Studies Anonymous, 2012 This book is part of a small project by Andy Schmitz to archive copies of all the books which were made available online from a specific publisher at the end of 2012 in order to preserve their status as Creative Commons licensed textbooks and therefore remain free to access and use Schmitz explains why there are no authors publisher names or descriptions The books are licensed under the Creative Commons by nc sa 3 0 license which typically requires attributing the source of the work author title and URI Initially then these books were attributed to the authors and publisher who made them available However in March 2013 I was contacted by the publisher who acting as the licensor of the works asked me to remove the Creative Commons attribution to the original authors and publisher from the collection of books They also indicated that in situations where I was required to attribute the work they wished the works to be attributed to anonymous authors While I find this turn of events disappointing because it doesn't give the publisher or the original authors very much credit for making the books available I have obliged by removing the original attribution I had added for Creative Commons and by not specifying the publisher's name in my templates for the books What about the titles In August 2013 I was contacted again by the publisher who requested that I remove the books' original titles as well Under the understanding that the books republished here are a Collection and that the title in the book URIs could be considered part of the Section 4 d attribution I have retitled all of the books hosted in this collection Care has been taken to ensure that links to the old names in this collection will redirect to the book's new location and to the same content Further the publisher requested that I remove their corporate trademarks from the books I have therefore also replaced the publisher's name with the phrase Unnamed Publisher and a link to this page And the citations A number of the books in this archive had citations to other books from the publisher or other resources that the publisher was hosting As part of the publisher's requests they asked to have these citations and links removed as well Because it did not appear as though the removal of the citations was likely to impact the books' usability where I have found citations to books from the publisher I have removed those citations as well

Journalism and Human Rights John C. Pollock, 2017-10-02 This book is the first collection of original research to explore links between demographics and media coverage of emerging human rights issues It covers cross national reporting on human trafficking HIV AIDS water contamination and child labour and same sex marriage Guantanamo detainee rights immigration reform and post traumatic stress disorder in the United States The research asks questions such as What are the principal catalysts that propel rights issues into media agendas Why do some surface more quickly than others And how do the demographics of cross national reporting differ from those driving multi city US nationwide coverage of rights claims Using community structure theory and innovative Media Vector content analysis the eight chapters of this book reveal three striking patterns that show how differences in female empowerment social or economic vulnerability and Midwestern newspaper geographic location link powerfully with variations in coverage of rights issues The patterns connecting demographics and rights claims confirm that coverage of human rights can mirror the concerns of stakeholders and vulnerable groups contrary to conventional assumptions that media typically serve as guard dogs reinforcing the interests of political and economic elites This book was originally published as a special issue of The Atlantic Journal of Communication

Transformative Communication Studies Omar Swartz, 2008-01-01 This interdisciplinary collection of essays charts intersections between communication cultural studies and a variety of emergent emancipatory and liberatory discourses Every essay attempts in one way or another to speak to the following questions What would a theory of liberation look like that is premised on a communication view of the world How would such a view expand and even redefine our understanding of liberation Finally how would such a view enlarge our understanding of what is collectively communally and organizationally possible In other words the chapters articulate what can be loosely considered a humanist theory of communication and praxis The goal is to move beyond discourses of liberation that are grounded in essentialist assumptions and to move the conversation toward an engaged criticism on cultural and social levels that facilitates and encourages progressive action This edited collection thus has as its goal a theory of human liberation grounded in communication as a resource for social and spiritual transformation The chapters comprise a mix of conceptual and applied studies that interrogate the communicative practices that naturalize our hierarchical world reifying and stultifying our moral and political imaginations As an antidote to this problem the contributors consider the importance of uncertainty and contingency in the development of human potential Rather than fearing uncertainty and contingency and allowing that fear to control us contributors argue that we should find within these conditions the source of our humanity and the strength to question and resist unjust social reifications When we do this we will rediscover the power of communication and regain an agency and control over our lives We then can start the difficult but humanizing process of constructing the world anew Case study exemplars of this construction thus are showcased
