Speaking Culturally Gerry Philipsen, 1992-11-03

Speaking Culturally presents case studies of two cultures focusing on how speaking is thematized and enacted in each. The Teamsterville culture is drawn from the author's studies of the spoken life of an urban working class neighborhood in Chicago while the Nacirema culture draws upon studies of communication among middle class Americans primarily on the West Coast. Using fieldwork conducted over a period of twenty years Philipsen shows how listening to a people's spoken life can reveal expressions of underlying codes or social rhetorics of what it means to be a person how persons can and should be linked together in social relations and how communication can and should be used in interpersonal conduct. From these studies of speaking in two cultures emerges an understanding of communication as an activity in which people not only draw from and express but also shape and fashion their understandings of self society and strategic action.

Peeters, 2014-01-03 Did you know that to get a job in Australia it is important to use the right balance of informal and formal language during the interview? Did you know that student advising in Wu Chinese spoken around Shanghai is not a face threatening activity contrary to general perceptions about the nature of advice giving? Did you know that the use of minimal eye contact and flat intonation by Japanese speakers is interpreted by native English speakers as a lack of interest and willingness to communicate? Did you know that French and Australian English speakers show a surprising number of similarities in the way they use conversational humour in social visits? Think you know how to address your Italian lecturer or tutor? Think again. These are some of the findings arrived at in this exciting new collection of papers from an array of international scholars who represent different theoretical perspectives but who all study communicative behaviour across languages and cultures including English French Italian Japanese Russian and Wu Chinese.
