

Nurturing the business ecosystem for micro entrepreneurs

In Latin America, there are 700,000 small retailers who operate very small stores or kiosks, selling low products across a wide range of other goods. Of these retailers, about 50% live in poverty and 80% are run by women who are heads of households. They face huge challenges, not least access to finance and the ability to secure all the necessary permits to operate. That is why we are joining forces with the Inter-American Development Bank's Multilateral Investment Fund (MIF) to roll out the Climate of Progress, a programme to improve the livelihoods of 40,000 'retailers' in six countries.

"In Latin America, there are small scale shopkeepers – retailers – who run 80% of our retail business. Our programme takes a holistic approach to helping. It includes financial literacy and business skills training, access to microfinance and other financial services, professionalisation and legal assistance and other interventions. We will be supported by working with training on the importance of registering businesses when selling abroad and not to sell abroad to those under the legal drinking age, helping the retailers identify a critical sales channel, assist smaller firms to use their central position in their communities to become catalysts for development. It is a real strategy of helping to get our retailers to improve the quality and development of communities."

Ravi Lippert
President, SABB for Latin America

"As a multilateral bank, the IDB takes a leading role in helping private sector groups that contribute to sustainable growth and social inclusion. Through the MIF, the IDB is joining forces with SABB to improve the economic and social conditions of the small to medium sized retailers who are the backbone of growth in low income communities across the countries in Latin America."

Luis Alberto Gómez
President, Inter-American Development Bank

Our approach to taxation

We have established our first report on the impact of an economic development tax. Our approach to this 2013 offering is new and will be discussed and shared with you on our tax principles. Our second report is attached alongside this report.

The total fees borne and collected by SABB for 2013 are $1.5 million and our share of fees paid by our LOI joint venture during the year amounted to US$0.7 million (2012: US$0.6 million). These include payroll, corporate and professional fees, and fees borne by employees. Of this total, 80% was paid in developing countries. The corporate tax charge for the year was US$0.2 million (2012: US$0.1 million), including going on an effective tax rate of 26.0% (2012: 27.0%).

The big question

Small business owners face similar challenges, regardless of the business they run or where it is located. How can we make our enterprise development partners to help these entrepreneurs grow their businesses and contribute to a thriving world where incomes and quality of life are growing?
