Dada Et Moi:

Dada and beyond Elza Adamowicz, Eric Robertson, 2011 This collection of critical essays celebrates the subversive and challenging creativity of the Dada movement born in pacifist Zurich in 1916 in violent reaction to the First World War It examines the collective and individual activities that took place under the name of Dada in Zurich Cologne Berlin Paris New York and Barcelona and explores the various creative forms employed including text collage photomontage objects dance performance and film The authors suggest new ways of understanding the work of the most famous Dadaists while also casting light on the contribution of hitherto neglected figures Far from attempting to reduce Dada to a homogeneous movement or to define a unifying principle beneath and beyond the multiple directions taken by Dadaists this collection aims to respect the diversity and heterogeneity of the movement s collective activities as well as the specificity of its individual actors

The Dada Painters and Poets Robert Motherwell, 1989. Presents a collection of essays, manifestos and illustrations that provide an overview of the Dada movement in art, describing its convictions, antics and spirit through the words and art of its principal practitioners.

Reviews, Zeitschriften, Revues Sophie Levie, 1994. This study of six early twentieth century periodicals serves to refine the traditional image of the inter-war journal as the pre-eminent vehicle of artistic and intellectual renewal. Every periodical has its own history, but general themes are clearly identified. Traces emerge of a common commitment to the internationalisation of the arts, and we find early and unexpected discussion of Freud, Chaplin and Joyce in Brussels and Berlin, jazz in Vienna and Brussels, Ezra Pound in the Netherlands and Belgium. In contrast to this internationalisation are the ambitions of the various editors to play a significant role in their national cultures. This tension between national and international influences was in the first instance stimulating and innovative. Later, as a result of political and socio-economic developments, the newly achieved openness and exchange were gradually diminished and finally disappeared, as did the periodicals themselves.

Theatrical Gestures of Belgian Modernism David Willinger, 2002. Theatrical Gestures of Belgian Modernism assembles a series of brilliant dramatic works issuing from a remarkably fecund modern period of artistic creation in Belgium. It includes dadaists like Clément Pansaers and Paul Joostens, surrealists like Paul Nougé, René Magritte, Paul Colinet, Fernand Dumont and Marcel Marijn, expressionists like Michel De Ghelderode and Norgé, and futurists like Georges Linze. In an introduction of great historical accuracy and detail, editor David Willinger guides the reader through the maze of modernist tendencies that blossomed, intersected and combated throughout the first part of the twentieth century in Belgium. Many of these works, whose extraordinary iconoclasm defied presentation on a conventional stage, herald some of the more radical experiments in theatrical and dramatic craft later in the century.
